Hungarian Coup By Communist Party Reported

Premier Reported To Have Resigned

BUDAPEST, May 29, (AP) — A high Hungarian source said Premier Ferenc Nagy, of the anti-Communist Small Landholders Party telephoned his resignation from his vacation resort in Switzerland today.

The informant said Nagy had been "pushed from office" by the minority Communist Party, and pro-American Hungarians said it was a coup d'etat that spelled the beginning of a complete Communist police state in Hungary.

The informant, who earlier had disclosed that the Russians had charged Nagy and two other high officials with being implicated in a plot to overthrow "Hungarian democracy," said Nagy would not return to Hungary.

Resignation Accepted

The resignation was accepted at an emergency meeting of the leaders of the Small Landholders, Communist, Social Democrat and Peasant Parties, main Hungarian political groups.

Imre Oltvanyi was understood to have been tentatively decided upon as Nagy's successor. Oltvanyi is a former president of the National Bank and a left-wing member of Nagy's party.

It was understood the Erno Mihalfyi, Minister of Information, would take Nagy's four-year-old son to Switzerland. His wife, daughter and older son already are out of the country.

An important official said the Russian charges against Nagy were conveyed to the government in a deposition from Bela Kovacs, former secretary general of the Small Landholders Party. Kovacs' arrest on February 26 precipitated a sharp United States note charging Communists with "attempting to seize power."

The political axe fell on Nagy after 17 months in office trying to uphold the moderately conservative beliefs of his party, which won 57 per cent of the vote in the last election, against the insistent demands of the Communists and their friends among the Social Democrats.

Survived 1946 Party Purge

He survived the first Communist-inspired purge of his party in which 18 members resigned early in 1946 and subsequent purges.

Nagy's political advisors said tonight his resignation would give an impetus to the Communist campaign to nationalize the National Bank and three other leading banks which own 62 per cent of Hungarian industry.

Thirty per cent of the country's heavy industry already has been nationalized.

Near panic existed in Budapest's leading business circles tonight, and there was nervous talk of another inflation.

There were reports the Bourse would not open tomorrow and that there would be a run on the passport office.

CHAINED BY PARENTS—Barefooted Lester Cales, 9, shows Sheriff Charles Kisner, of Kingwood, W. Va., how he was chained to a tree by his parents and the eating utensils that were left for him. He was released by authorities who came to the scene to investigate a complaint by neighbors. The parents said they chained him because he ran away from home.

Fire Rages Aboard Ship Berthed At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, May 29 (AP)—A stubborn fire deep in the after hold of the Liberty ship Barbara Frietchie tonight blanketed the Delaware River waterfront with smoke and posed a difficult problem for firemen.

No one was injured or endangered, Chief Engineer John C. Frost reported.

Feeding on hundreds of tons of war paper, other paper products and automobile tires and tubes, the fire raged beneath several layers of steel pilings stowed in the hold. Tons of water were poured into the hatch from shore lines and two city fireboats.

Report Due Monday

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—Aides to Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said today that Jenner's subcommittee expects to report Monday to the Rules Committee on its review of 6,624 contested ballots in Maryland's 1946 senatorial election.

Gen. Eisenhower Denies Statement Made By A. J. May

Was Not "Screaming" For Shells In 1945

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today denied Andrew J. May's statement that the General was "screaming" for more shells in 1945.

May, former chairman of the House Military Committee, contends that was the reason he protested a War Department cutback of an eight-inch shell contract for a Garsson munitions firm.

But Eisenhower testified today that the real urgency for shells was in 1944 and that the Army's demand fell off sharply in 1945 as the war in Europe neared its close.

Eisenhower testified at the trial of May and Arms Manufacturers Henry and Murray Garsson on bribe charges. The government contends May took $55,000 from the Garsson brothers as pay for favors to the $78,000,000 Garsson munitions empire.

In 1945 May, as a Democratic member from Kentucky, was chairman of the House Military Committee. Eisenhower, now Army Chief of Staff, was Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.

Defense attorneys showed Eisenhower a telegram they said was sent to Henry Garsson by the War Department in April, 1945. It was not read but the inference was that it called for greater eight-inch shell production.

"This could have had nothing to do with the European theater because our war was so nearly won," Eisenhower said. He added he never would have authorized the message.

Eisenhower also testified that a plea May sent him in Europe in 1945 to review the court-martial of Murray Garsson's son was handled in a "routine way."

May's Attorneys Blocked

May's attorneys tried to ask Eisenhower what action he took, if any, in response to the plea but Presiding Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut blocked any replies. He commented that "we can't re-try a court-martial here."

The defense called Eisenhower for questioning about two letters May wrote him that year appealing in behalf of Capt. Joseph Garsson

UMW Committee Held In Readiness For Developments

Lewis' Demands Are Revealed Officially

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—John L. Lewis today held his United Mine Workers Policy Committee in readiness for any possible weekend developments as he negotiated for new contract demands with the soft coal operators.

Lewis summoned the 200 members of his policy committee and the 25 bituminous district presidents to a 15-minute session today. The committee was told to remain on call despite the holiday tomorrow.

Negotiations went on, meantime, with the Southern Coal Producers Association, representing 25 per cent of the soft coal output, at one hotel, and with negotiators for the remainder of the industry at another hotel.

Holiday Session Scheduled

Lewis directed the negotiations with the major portion of the industry. He took his delegation out of the meeting yesterday after only one hour, leading to some speculation that a crisis in the two-week-old negotiations was in the making. After new sessions today the conferees agreed to meet again tomorrow despite the holiday.

The southern negotiations were being handled by UMW Vice President John O'Leary. Conference Chairman Laurence E. Tierney, Jr., Bluefield, W. Va., president of the Eastern Coal Company, said the operators had presented some "ideas" to the miners at the start of their talks Wednesday. These ideas were mulled over again today, Tierney said. The meetings then were recessed until Tuesday.

UMW Demands Disclosed

The United Mine Workers Journal disclosed officially for the first time that Lewis' demands include higher wages and shorter hours, a greater tonnage royalty for the union's health and welfare fund, a mine safety code, and doubling of the present 15-minute paid lunch period underground. Details of the demands were omitted.

Lewis is believed to be asking for the same pay for a five-day week as the miners now get for working six days, or the same pay for an eight-hour day as now received for nine hours. He also is believed to be seeking a 10-cent royalty on each ton of coal instead of the five cents allowed by the contract he made with Secretary of the Interior Krug, ending last spring's strike after seizure of the coal mines.

Travers, Blum Named To State Commissions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 29 (AP)—Gov. Lane today appointed Sen. William W. Travers, Salisbury, to the State Tax Commission and Albert H. Blum, Baltimore, to the State Accident Fund Commission.

Travers, Wicomico County lawyer and Democrat, was elected last fall to his first term in the Senate, while Blum has been a practicing lawyer also and served as chairman of the Advisory Board on Veterans Pardons.

Travers succeeds Emerson C. Harrington, Jr., Cambridge. The post pays $5,000 with its term running six years.

Blum replaces John Sherman as a fund commissioner. Sherman, as chairman, received $3,000 a year.

Senate Votes To Ease Rent Controls; Permissive Hikes Would Be Allowed

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Senate voted today to permit 15 per cent rent increases where tenants agree to them in exchange for leases to run through 1948.

It also voted to require the removal of rent ceilings in about 30 areas each month. There are now 620 areas under rent control.

The Senate took these actions as a prelude to voting on a bill to extend rent controls, in such revised form, until February 29, 1948. The vote on extension was put over until next week.

A 48 to 26 ballot put through the permissive rent increase, offered by Sen. Hawkes (R-NJ), a voice vote approved the idea of gradual dropping of areas under rent control. Its author was Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Eight Democrats — Byrd, Va.; Eastland, Miss.; Hoey, N. C.; Edwin C. Johnson, Colo.; O'Conor and Tydings, Md.; Holland, Fla.; and O'Daniel, Tex.—Joined 40 Republicans in favoring the Hawkes amendment. Two Republicans—Aiken, Vt.; and Langer, N. D., lined up with 24 Democrats in opposition.

The amendment, which the House has approved in slightly different form, would permit volnutary agreements on increases not to exceed 15 per cent above the rent in effect for a particular property on September 1, 1946.

Such agrements would be allowed up to December 31 next and would run through 1948.

Hawkes contended the amendment wolud not give any legal power to landlords to raise rents. He said many tenants would welcome an opportunity to negotiate with owners with the assurance their rents would not be raised more than 15 per cent after federal controls go off.

Senate-House Conferees Agree On Tax, Labor Bills

Veto Of Anti-Union Measure Is Urged

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — A compromise labor bill imposing many restrictions upon unions won final approval of a House-Senate conference committee today, but two dissenting members blasted it and urged President Truman to veto it.

Sen. Murray (D-Mont) and Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich) declared the bill "will cause domestic strife and uncertainty." Their statement added:

"We fervently hope that the President will exercise his constitutional authority to veto this legislation, and that an informed and aroused public will make its power felt to defeat finally this reactionary measure."

Rep. Hoffman Refuses To Sign

Besides Murray and Lesinski, Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) refused to sign the final draft which reconciles differences between separate bills passed by the House and Senate. Hoffman has favored stronger restrictions.

The bill was approved by these conferees: Sens. Taft (R-Ohio), Ball (R-Minn), Ellender (D-La) and Ives (R-NY), and Reps. Hartley (R-NJ), Landis (R-Ind) and Barden (D-NC).

Taft was asked whether he believes the Senate, which passed its bill by better than a two-thirds majority, could muster such a margin to override a possible veto. He replied:

"I think the settlement (on the compromise bill) will be satisfactory to the senators who voted for the bill."

It takes a two-thirds majority in each chamber to overcome a veto. House conferees have had no doubt that the House would override. They gave up some of the more far-reaching provisions of their measure in order to increase chances that the Senate would follow suit.

House To Act Next Wednesday

The conferees reached an agreement today on the final difference between the two bills. They decided to throw out a House provision which would have denied collective bargaining rights to food processors.

Whether these workers are covered by the Wagner Act as it stands has been a subject of dispute. The conferees agreed to leave the issue to the National Labor Relations Board and the courts.

Hartley, chief of the House conferees, told newsmen the House will act next Wednesday on ratification of the compromise bill. The measure will come up in the Senate next, possibly the same day. Then it goes to the White House.

Income Levy Would Be Slashed July 1

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Delegations from the House and Senate agreed in less than two hours today on a $4,000,000,000-a-year income tax cut, opening the way for final congressional action Monday.

The bill, carrying sharply reduced withholding rates, is slated to go into effect July 1—if President Truman does not veto it. The possibility of a veto is not ruled out at the Capitol.

Final congressional approval of the conference committee's action is regarded as only a formality, in view of the majorities rolled up for the measure in both chambers.

The House passed its version of the bill March 27 by a vote of 273 to 137. It cleared the Senate late yesterday, 52 to 34, with some amendments. Both votes, however, fell short of the two-thirds majority required to override a presidential veto.

Senate Date Prevails

The chief point of argument between the two houses was when the cuts should become effective. The Senate's July 1 date prevailed. The House had voted to make the reductions retroactive to last January 1, with taxpayers granted refunds for overpayments in the first half of 1947.

The Senate yielded to bring a larger group of taxpayers within the 20 per cent reduction bracket. The cost of the change to the Treasury, in lost revenue, was estimated at $62,300,000.

As finally approved by the conferees, the bill would grant reductions ranging from 10.5 to 30 per cent over a full year's operation. Because the bill would take effect at mid-year, howvre, th benefits to taxpayers on their 1947 incomes would be scaled down to from 5.25 to 15 per cent, this year only.

Scale of Cuts

The bill orders these cuts below present taxes:

On net incomes of $1,000 or less, after exemptions and deductions, 15 per cent for 1947, and 30 per cent in 1948 and subsequent years.

$1,000 to $1,400: Graduated reductions of 15 to 10 per cent this year, and of 30 to 20 per cent thereafter.

$1,400 to $136,720: Cut of 10 per cent this year, 20 per cent thereafter.

$136,720 to $302,400. Cut of 7.5 per cent this year, 15 per cent thereafter.

All above $302,400: cut of 5.25 per cent this year, 10.5 per cent thereafter.

Reds Gain Minor Atomic Decision

LAKE SUCCESS, May 29 (AP) — Russia gained a minor decision in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission today but the big issue of the veto in atomic control was still to be fought out.

The Soviet edge came when the commission's working committee adopted unanimously a Russian-sponsored resolution reaffirming a General Assembly decision that any international system of atomic control should operate "within the framework of the Security Council," where Russia and the other four big powers hold the veto.

Until today's meeting, American Deputy Delegate Frederick H. Osborn had insisted he would reject such a resolution on the grounds that it was not clear and left the way open for the Russians to claim that all functions in the atomic field should be made subject to the veto.

However, after being beaten on what he called a clarifying amendment, Osborn backed down.

Britain, U. S. Will Set Up German Economic Group

BERLIN, May 29, (AP) — The Americans and British announced today they will set up an all-German economic council in their merged zones to speed the task of making more than 39,000,000 Germans self-supporting.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, and Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the British deputy military governor, disclosed in a joint statement that agreement had been reached on creation of the economic council, or parliament. The move had been discussed for weeks.

Bevin Wins Endorsement Of British Labor Party

MARGATE, England, May 29, (AP) —Britain's ruling Labor Party gave Ernest Bevin its overwhelming endorsement today after listening to the Foreign Secretary praise the American program for aid to Greece and Turkey and stand firm against granting Russia bases in the Dardanelles.

Hardly a score of hands were raised among 1,250 delegates to the party's annual conference in support of resolutions offered by "rebels" within the party asserting that Britain should shy away from American foreign policy and try to cultivate good relations with the Soviet Union.

The favoring vote — so decisive it was not counted — was a signal triumph for Bevin, whose left wing critics earlier today had referred to President Truman as "puny" and the United States economy as "hysterical chaos."

Methodist Conference Opens In Westminster

WESTMINSTER, Md., Mya 29 (AP) —The eighth annual session of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church opened here today with Bishop Charles Wesley Flint, of Washington, presiding over the assembly of 350 ministers and 350 laymen.

The conference was called to order in Alumni Hall of Western Maryland College.

After a hymn following the Bishop's benediction, the business of the meeting was underway. Leaders said they hoped to wind up Sunday night, when ministerial appointments will be announced.

SPELLING CHAMP—Mattie Lou Pollard, 14, Thomaston, Ga., smiles broadly after winning the twentieth annual national spelling bee at Washington yesterday. She holds her identification number, which she said brought her luck.

GIRL FROM ONE-ROOM GEORGIA SCHOOL WINS U. S. SPELLING HONORS

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—A 14-year-old girl who has had only one teacher in all the eight years she has spent in a one-room Georgia schoolhouse today won the national spelling bee.

Freckled, honey-haired Mattie Lou Pollard, of Thomaston, Ga., became the champion because she knows how to spell "magotty" and "chlorophyll," as well as 50 other tough ones.

It was no easy triumph.

Dimpled, pretty Sonya Rodolfo, of Chicago, whose father is a Filipino scientist and whose mother is a Russian-born journalist, left the Philippines only two years ago. But she was right in there— until "maggoty" came along. She thought it was m-a-g-g-o-t-e-y.

Mattie Lou, who won sixth place in the national here last year, knew better. And when she also spelled another word, "chlorophyll," as the rules provide, she became the champion speller of 6,000,000 school kids.

Truman Returns To White House

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — President Truman returned today to his White House desk at which he will soon sign or veto a tax-cutting bill and one to curb strikes and other union activities.

Mr. Truman, his mind somewhat eased by improvement in his mother's health, flew from Kansas City to Washington, landing at National Airport in early afternoon.

For 12 days he had been at the bedside of his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, in Grandview, Mo. Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the President's physician, reported today that Mrs. Truman "is getting stronger right along." She has been suffering from a weakened heart.

The tax-cutting bill, taking some $4,000,000,000 a year out of the treasury's revenues from individual income taxes, is due at the White House early next week.

Mr. Truman has said all along that he opposes tax cuts now, preferring to apply any spare billions to the national debt.

Also, the strike curbing bill on which Senate and House conferees are agreed, goes far beyond Mr. Truman's request for labor legislation. The conferees tailored it to meet the possibility of a veto and Republican leaders say they believe Congress would pass it over the President's disapproval.

Man Who Tried To Kill Roxas Sentenced To Die

MANILA, May 29. (AP)—A Manila barber who attempted to assassinate President Roxas with a hand grenade March 11 was sentenced today to die in the electric chair for the death of one bystander and injury of five others in the explosion.

The Manila court of the first instance found Julio C. Guillen guilty of murder and frustrated murder. He was ordered to pay $1,000 to the family of Simon Varela, killed by the blast which did not touch the President.

House Committee Slashes Military Funds 8 Per Cent

Reduction In Officer Strength Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) —The House Appropriations Committee's economy drive took a $475,809,077 bite out of the Army's military budget today, cutting 8.3 per cent from the President's request for $5,716,791,500 in new funds.

In sending to the House floor for debate next week a $5,240,982,423 Army supply bill for the year starting July 1, the committee ordered a reduction of 20,100 in officer strength and 74,631 in civilian employes.

It approved the full request for $280,000,000 on contract authority for new airplane and plane equipment purchases and, with War Department acquiescence, cancelled $1,100,000,000 of money appropriated for the current and previous years but neither spent nor obligated.

It did not claim the cancellation as a saving in its drive to chop $6,000,000,000 from the President's overall $37,500,000,000 budget for next year, a drive which has produced House-approved cuts to date of approximately $3,064,000,000. This includes the recommended cut in the Army bill and a $642,000,000 item in a deficiency measure which Democrats have called a "bookkeeping" saving.

The committee cut the Army's military budget — its foreign relief and civil functions money is carried in another measure — despite the protests of Secretary Paterson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that any substantial reduction might lead to "real danger."

Those were Eisenhower's words. Paterson told the committee a cut of even several hundred millions would be "a major cut" that would impair "the effectiveness of the army."

Idle Payments Rise

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 29 (AP)—Unemployment compensation payments to Marylanders continued to rise for the third week, during the seven-day period ending May 24, when 16,961 checks totaling $288,994, were issued.

Death Strikes Huge Airliner On N.Y. Takeoff

Bursts Into Flames After Hitting Fence

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A big four-engined United Airlines plane, taking off in a rainstorm, crashed and burned near LaGuardia field tonight with 37 persons killed, according to several sources, and 11 injured — the greatest death toll in a commercial plane disaster in the United States.

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A big United Airlines plane crashed on a takeoff and burned near LaGuardia field tonight and police said 42 of 48 persons aboard were killed — the worst commercial airline disaster in this country.

Officers said one of the six survivors was the pilot.

A rescue worker said 11 persons were saved but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Most of the 44 passengers on board were women, it was reported.

The plane took off in a driving rain, airport attaches said.

Police reported that the airliner, a four-engined DC-4, struck a fence at the edge of the field as it was taking off for Cleveland.

Fire Seen For Miles

The fire following the crash could be seen for miles and was not brought under control for approximately an hour, during which time police said "several bodies" could be seen in the burning wreckage.

It was not known immediately how the six persons escaped death. The figures, along with those for the total of crew and passengers, were reported by police.

The plane took off at 7:07 (EST) and crashed a few moments later near Grand Central Parkway, a trunk highway from Manhattan across Long Island which skirts LaGuardia Field.

Police cars, ambulances and fire fighting vehicles quickly raced to the scene.

In Chicago, United Airlines said the pilot was Capt. B. R. Baldwin, of New York City and that he was thrown clear of the plane and listed among the survivors.

Names of passengers and other crew members were not immediately available.

53 Died In Colombia Crashes

The greatest loss of life heretofore in commercial aircraft crashes in this country was on May 16, 1946, when 27 died in the crash of a plane near Richmond, Va., and on March 3, 1946, when the same number was killed when an airliner struck a California mountain.

Elsewhere in the world, however, 53 died in each of two different crashes—both in Colombia, South America. The first was in 1938, when a plane crashed into a crowd at Bogota, and the second was last February 15 when another craft struck a mountain. Forty-nine were killed in a Moscow accident in 1935, and 43 died last January 5 in the crash of a Chinese airliner at Tsingtao, China.

Three Missing In B-29 Crash

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 29 (AP) —A B-29 bomber crashed and burned shortly after taking off from Ladd Field here today and the Army Public Relations Office said three men were reported missing.

The other nine members of the crew escaped serious injury but were brought to the Ladd Field station hospital. The crash occurred shortly after 10 a. m. (3 p. m. EST).

All of the field's rescue equipment was called into use. Small power boats were used to get help across the Chena River to the crash scene and helicopters were flown over the spot.

The plane was attached to the 46th Reconnaissance Squadron. No cause of the crash was immediately learned. A board of officers was promptly named to investigate.

Md. Phone Operators Accept New Contract

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP)—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City announced tonight that the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, representing 4,400 operators and other traffic department employes, had accepted a new work contract providing weekly wage increases of $2 and $3.

Tributes To War Dead, Pilgrimages To Graves Will Mark Memorial Day

[By The Associated Press]

Solemn tributes to the nation's war dead at ceremonies throughout the country as well as individual pilgrimages to graves of loved ones will be made today by millions of Americans in the 79th annual observance of Memorial Day.

Symbolic of the services in honor of those who fell fighting the nation's battles will be the ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia, just outside Washington, where many military heroes are buried.

Boy Scouts will decorate 70,000 Arlington graves. President Truman's wreath will be placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier by Col. Don E. Lowry, White House aide.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark will be principal speaker at the service, which will be broadcast from 10:45 a. m. to noon (EST).

For many Americans the day also marks the beginning of a three-day holiday and the opportunity for the first real outing of the season.

Rail, air and bus lines and highway officials all expected throngs at record or near-record levels for a Memorial Day weekend.

Upwards of 100,000 are expected to attend the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway race, the day's top sports event. Thousands of others were expected to flock to baseball parks, race tracks, beaches and resorts.

Hungarian Coup By Communist Party Reported

Premier Reported To Have Resigned

BUDAPEST, May 29, (AP) — A high Hungarian source said Premier Ferenc Nagy, of the anti-Communist Small Landholders Party telephoned his resignation from his vacation resort in Switzerland today.

The informant said Nagy had been "pushed from office" by the minority Communist Party, and pro-American Hungarians said it was a coup d'etat that spelled the beginning of a complete Communist police state in Hungary.

The informant, who earlier had disclosed that the Russians had charged Nagy and two other high officials with being implicated in a plot to overthrow "Hungarian democracy," said Nagy would not return to Hungary.

Resignation Accepted

The resignation was accepted at an emergency meeting of the leaders of the Small Landholders, Communist, Social Democrat and Peasant Parties, main Hungarian political groups.

Imre Oltvanyi was understood to have been tentatively decided upon as Nagy's successor. Oltvanyi is a former president of the National Bank and a left-wing member of Nagy's party.

It was understood the Erno Mihalfyi, Minister of Information, would take Nagy's four-year-old son to Switzerland. His wife, daughter and older son already are out of the country.

An important official said the Russian charges against Nagy were conveyed to the government in a deposition from Bela Kovacs, former secretary general of the Small Landholders Party. Kovacs' arrest on February 26 precipitated a sharp United States note charging Communists with "attempting to seize power."

The political axe fell on Nagy after 17 months in office trying to uphold the moderately conservative beliefs of his party, which won 57 per cent of the vote in the last election, against the insistent demands of the Communists and their friends among the Social Democrats.

Survived 1946 Party Purge

He survived the first Communist-inspired purge of his party in which 18 members resigned early in 1946 and subsequent purges.

Nagy's political advisors said tonight his resignation would give an impetus to the Communist campaign to nationalize the National Bank and three other leading banks which own 62 per cent of Hungarian industry.

Thirty per cent of the country's heavy industry already has been nationalized.

Near panic existed in Budapest's leading business circles tonight, and there was nervous talk of another inflation.

Gen. Eisenhower Denies Statement Made By A. J. May

Was Not "Screaming" For Shells In 1945

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today denied Andrew J. May's statement that the General was "screaming" for more shells in 1945.

May, former chairman of the House Military Committee, contends that was the reason he protested a War Department cutback of an eight-inch shell contract for a Garsson munitions firm.

But Eisenhower testified today that the real urgency for shells was in 1944 and that the Army's demand fell off sharply in 1945 as the war in Europe neared its close.

Eisenhower testified at the trial of May and Arms Manufacturers Henry and Murray Garsson on bribe charges. The government contends May took $55,000 from the Garsson brothers as pay for favors to the $78,000,000 Garsson munitions empire.

In 1945 May, as a Democratic member from Kentucky, was chairman of the House Military Committee. Eisenhower, now Army Chief of Staff, was Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.

Defense attorneys showed Eisenhower a telegram they said was sent to Henry Garsson by the War Department in April, 1945. It was not read but the inference was that it called for greater eight-inch shell production.

"This could have had nothing to do with the European theater because our war was so nearly won," Eisenhower said. He added he never would have authorized the message.

Eisenhower also testified that a plea May sent him in Europe in 1945 to review the court-martial of Murray Garsson's son was handled in a "routine way."

May's Attorneys Blocked

May's attorneys tried to ask Eisenhower what action he took, if any, in response to the plea but Presiding Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut blocked any replies. He commented that "we can't re-try a court-martial here."

The defense called Eisenhower for questioning about two letters May wrote him that year appealing in behalf of Capt. Joseph Garsson

UMW Committee Held In Readiness For Developments

Lewis' Demands Are Revealed Officially

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—John L. Lewis today held his United Mine Workers Policy Committee in readiness for any possible weekend developments as he negotiated for new contract demands with the soft coal operators.

Lewis summoned the 200 members of his policy committee and the 25 bituminous district presidents to a 15-minute session today. The committee was told to remain on call despite the holiday tomorrow.

Negotiations went on, meantime, with the Southern Coal Producers Association, representing 25 per cent of the soft coal output, at one hotel, and with negotiators for the remainder of the industry at another hotel.

Holiday Session Scheduled

Lewis directed the negotiations with the major portion of the industry. He took his delegation out of the meeting yesterday after only one hour, leading to some speculation that a crisis in the two-week-old negotiations was in the making. After new sessions today the conferees agreed to meet again tomorrow despite the holiday.

The southern negotiations were being handled by UMW Vice President John O'Leary. Conference Chairman Laurence E. Tierney, Jr., Bluefield, W. Va., president of the Eastern Coal Company, said the operators had presented some "ideas" to the miners at the start of their talks Wednesday. These ideas were mulled over again today, Tierney said. The meetings then were recessed until Tuesday.

UMW Demands Disclosed

The United Mine Workers Journal disclosed officially for the first time that Lewis' demands include higher wages and shorter hours, a greater tonnage royalty for the union's health and welfare fund, a mine safety code, and doubling of the present 15-minute paid lunch period underground. Details of the demands were omitted.

Lewis is believed to be asking for the same pay for a five-day week as the miners now get for working six days, or the same pay for an eight-hour day as now received for nine hours. He also is believed to be seeking a 10-cent royalty on each ton of coal instead of the five cents allowed by the contract he made with Secretary of the Interior Krug, ending last spring's strike after seizure of the coal mines.

Fire Rages Aboard Ship Berthed At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, May 29 (AP)—A stubborn fire deep in the after hold of the Liberty ship Barbara Frietchie tonight blanketed the Delaware River waterfront with smoke and posed a difficult problem for firemen.

No one was injured or endangered, Chief Engineer John C. Frost reported.

Feeding on hundreds of tons of war paper, other paper products and automobile tires and tubes, the fire raged beneath several layers of steel pilings stowed in the hold. Tons of water were poured into the hatch from shore lines and two city fireboats.

Report Due Monday

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—Aides to Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said today that Jenner's subcommittee expects to report Monday to the Rules Committee on its review of 6,624 contested ballots in Maryland's 1946 senatorial election.

Senate-House Conferees Agree On Tax, Labor Bills

Veto Of Anti-Union Measure Is Urged

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — A compromise labor bill imposing many restrictions upon unions won final approval of a House-Senate conference committee today, but two dissenting members blasted it and urged President Truman to veto it.

Sen. Murray (D-Mont) and Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich) declared the bill "will cause domestic strife and uncertainty." Their statement added:

"We fervently hope that the President will exercise his constitutional authority to veto this legislation, and that an informed and aroused public will make its power felt to defeat finally this reactionary measure."

Rep. Hoffman Refuses To Sign

Besides Murray and Lesinski, Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) refused to sign the final draft which reconciles differences between separate bills passed by the House and Senate. Hoffman has favored stronger restrictions.

The bill was approved by these conferees: Sens. Taft (R-Ohio), Ball (R-Minn), Ellender (D-La) and Ives (R-NY), and Reps. Hartley (R-NJ), Landis (R-Ind) and Barden (D-NC).

Taft was asked whether he believes the Senate, which passed its bill by better than a two-thirds majority, could muster such a margin to override a possible veto. He replied:

"I think the settlement (on the compromise bill) will be satisfactory to the senators who voted for the bill."

It takes a two-thirds majority in each chamber to overcome a veto. House conferees have had no doubt that the House would override. They gave up some of the more far-reaching provisions of their measure in order to increase chances that the Senate would follow suit.

House To Act Next Wednesday

The conferees reached an agreement today on the final difference between the two bills. They decided to throw out a House provision which would have denied collective bargaining rights to food processors.

Whether these workers are covered by the Wagner Act as it stands has been a subject of dispute. The conferees agreed to leave the issue to the National Labor Relations Board and the courts.

Hartley, chief of the House conferees, told newsmen the House will act next Wednesday on ratification of the compromise bill. The measure will come up in the Senate next, possibly the same day. Then it goes to the White House.

Income Levy Would Be Slashed July 1

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Delegations from the House and Senate agreed in less than two hours today on a $4,000,000,000-a-year income tax cut, opening the way for final congressional action Monday.

The bill, carrying sharply reduced withholding rates, is slated to go into effect July 1—if President Truman does not veto it. The possibility of a veto is not ruled out at the Capitol.

Final congressional approval of the conference committee's action is regarded as only a formality, in view of the majorities rolled up for the measure in both chambers.

The House passed its version of the bill March 27 by a vote of 273 to 137. It cleared the Senate late yesterday, 52 to 34, with some amendments. Both votes, however, fell short of the two-thirds majority required to override a presidential veto.

Senate Date Prevails

The chief point of argument between the two houses was when the cuts should become effective. The Senate's July 1 date prevailed. The House had voted to make the reductions retroactive to last January 1, with taxpayers granted refunds for overpayments in the first half of 1947.

The Senate yielded to bring a larger group of taxpayers within the 20 per cent reduction bracket. The cost of the change to the Treasury, in lost revenue, was estimated at $62,300,000.

As finally approved by the conferees, the bill would grant reductions ranging from 10.5 to 30 per cent over a full year's operation. Because the bill would take effect at mid-year, howvre, th benefits to taxpayers on their 1947 incomes would be scaled down to from 5.25 to 15 per cent, this year only.

Scale of Cuts

The bill orders these cuts below present taxes:

On net incomes of $1,000 or less, after exemptions and deductions, 15 per cent for 1947, and 30 per cent in 1948 and subsequent years.

$1,000 to $1,400: Graduated reductions of 15 to 10 per cent this year, and of 30 to 20 per cent thereafter.

$1,400 to $136,720: Cut of 10 per cent this year, 20 per cent thereafter.

$136,720 to $302,400. Cut of 7.5 per cent this year, 15 per cent thereafter.

All above $302,400: cut of 5.25 per cent this year, 10.5 per cent thereafter.

Reds Gain Minor Atomic Decision

LAKE SUCCESS, May 29 (AP) — Russia gained a minor decision in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission today but the big issue of the veto in atomic control was still to be fought out.

The Soviet edge came when the commission's working committee adopted unanimously a Russian-sponsored resolution reaffirming a General Assembly decision that any international system of atomic control should operate "within the framework of the Security Council," where Russia and the other four big powers hold the veto.

Until today's meeting, American Deputy Delegate Frederick H. Osborn had insisted he would reject such a resolution on the grounds that it was not clear and left the way open for the Russians to claim that all functions in the atomic field should be made subject to the veto.

However, after being beaten on what he called a clarifying amendment, Osborn backed down.

Britain, U. S. Will Set Up German Economic Group

BERLIN, May 29, (AP) — The Americans and British announced today they will set up an all-German economic council in their merged zones to speed the task of making more than 39,000,000 Germans self-supporting.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, and Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the British deputy military governor, disclosed in a joint statement that agreement had been reached on creation of the economic council, or parliament. The move had been discussed for weeks.

Bevin Wins Endorsement Of British Labor Party

MARGATE, England, May 29, (AP) —Britain's ruling Labor Party gave Ernest Bevin its overwhelming endorsement today after listening to the Foreign Secretary praise the American program for aid to Greece and Turkey and stand firm against granting Russia bases in the Dardanelles.

Hardly a score of hands were raised among 1,250 delegates to the party's annual conference in support of resolutions offered by "rebels" within the party asserting that Britain should shy away from American foreign policy and try to cultivate good relations with the Soviet Union.

The favoring vote — so decisive it was not counted — was a signal triumph for Bevin, whose left wing critics earlier today had referred to President Truman as "puny" and the United States economy as "hysterical chaos."

Methodist Conference Opens In Westminster

WESTMINSTER, Md., Mya 29 (AP) —The eighth annual session of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church opened here today with Bishop Charles Wesley Flint, of Washington, presiding over the assembly of 350 ministers and 350 laymen.

The conference was called to order in Alumni Hall of Western Maryland College.

After a hymn following the Bishop's benediction, the business of the meeting was underway. Leaders said they hoped to wind up Sunday night, when ministerial appointments will be announced.

Travers, Blum Named To State Commissions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 29 (AP)—Gov. Lane today appointed Sen. William W. Travers, Salisbury, to the State Tax Commission and Albert H. Blum, Baltimore, to the State Accident Fund Commission.

Travers, Wicomico County lawyer and Democrat, was elected last fall to his first term in the Senate, while Blum has been a practicing lawyer also and served as chairman of the Advisory Board on Veterans Pardons.

Travers succeeds Emerson C. Harrington, Jr., Cambridge. The post pays $5,000 with its term running six years.

Blum replaces John Sherman as a fund commissioner. Sherman, as chairman, received $3,000 a year.

SPELLING CHAMP—Mattie Lou Pollard, 14, Thomaston, Ga., smiles broadly after winning the twentieth annual national spelling bee at Washington yesterday. She holds her identification number, which she said brought her luck.

GIRL FROM ONE-ROOM GEORGIA SCHOOL WINS U. S. SPELLING HONORS

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—A 14-year-old girl who has had only one teacher in all the eight years she has spent in a one-room Georgia schoolhouse today won the national spelling bee.

Freckled, honey-haired Mattie Lou Pollard, of Thomaston, Ga., became the champion because she knows how to spell "magotty" and "chlorophyll," as well as 50 other tough ones.

It was no easy triumph.

Dimpled, pretty Sonya Rodolfo, of Chicago, whose father is a Filipino scientist and whose mother is a Russian-born journalist, left the Philippines only two years ago. But she was right in there— until "maggoty" came along. She thought it was m-a-g-g-o-t-e-y.

Mattie Lou, who won sixth place in the national here last year, knew better. And when she also spelled another word, "chlorophyll," as the rules provide, she became the champion speller of 6,000,000 school kids.

Truman Returns To White House

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — President Truman returned today to his White House desk at which he will soon sign or veto a tax-cutting bill and one to curb strikes and other union activities.

Mr. Truman, his mind somewhat eased by improvement in his mother's health, flew from Kansas City to Washington, landing at National Airport in early afternoon.

For 12 days he had been at the bedside of his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, in Grandview, Mo. Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the President's physician, reported today that Mrs. Truman "is getting stronger right along." She has been suffering from a weakened heart.

The tax-cutting bill, taking some $4,000,000,000 a year out of the treasury's revenues from individual income taxes, is due at the White House early next week.

Mr. Truman has said all along that he opposes tax cuts now, preferring to apply any spare billions to the national debt.

Also, the strike curbing bill on which Senate and House conferees are agreed, goes far beyond Mr. Truman's request for labor legislation. The conferees tailored it to meet the possibility of a veto and Republican leaders say they believe Congress would pass it over the President's disapproval.

Man Who Tried To Kill Roxas Sentenced To Die

MANILA, May 29. (AP)—A Manila barber who attempted to assassinate President Roxas with a hand grenade March 11 was sentenced today to die in the electric chair for the death of one bystander and injury of five others in the explosion.

The Manila court of the first instance found Julio C. Guillen guilty of murder and frustrated murder. He was ordered to pay $1,000 to the family of Simon Varela, killed by the blast which did not touch the President.

House Committee Slashes Military Funds 8 Per Cent

Reduction In Officer Strength Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) —The House Appropriations Committee's economy drive took a $475,809,077 bite out of the Army's military budget today, cutting 8.3 per cent from the President's request for $5,716,791,500 in new funds.

In sending to the House floor for debate next week a $5,240,982,423 Army supply bill for the year starting July 1, the committee ordered a reduction of 20,100 in officer strength and 74,631 in civilian employes.

It approved the full request for $280,000,000 on contract authority for new airplane and plane equipment purchases and, with War Department acquiescence, cancelled $1,100,000,000 of money appropriated for the current and previous years but neither spent nor obligated.

It did not claim the cancellation as a saving in its drive to chop $6,000,000,000 from the President's overall $37,500,000,000 budget for next year, a drive which has produced House-approved cuts to date of approximately $3,064,000,000. This includes the recommended cut in the Army bill and a $642,000,000 item in a deficiency measure which Democrats have called a "bookkeeping" saving.

The committee cut the Army's military budget — its foreign relief and civil functions money is carried in another measure — despite the protests of Secretary Paterson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that any substantial reduction might lead to "real danger."

Those were Eisenhower's words. Paterson told the committee a cut of even several hundred millions would be "a major cut" that would impair "the effectiveness of the army."

Idle Payments Rise

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 29 (AP)—Unemployment compensation payments to Marylanders continued to rise for the third week, during the seven-day period ending May 24, when 16,961 checks totaling $288,994, were issued.

Death Strikes Huge Airliner On N.Y. Takeoff

Bursts Into Flames After Hitting Fence

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A big four-engined United Airlines plane, taking off in a rainstorm, crashed and burned near LaGuardia field tonight with 37 persons killed, according to several sources, and 11 injured — the greatest death toll in a commercial plane disaster in the United States.

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A big United Airlines plane crashed on a takeoff and burned near LaGuardia field tonight and police said 42 of 48 persons aboard were killed — the worst commercial airline disaster in this country.

Officers said one of the six survivors was the pilot.

A rescue worker said 11 persons were saved but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Most of the 44 passengers on board were women, it was reported.

The plane took off in a driving rain, airport attaches said.

Police reported that the airliner, a four-engined DC-4, struck a fence at the edge of the field as it was taking off for Cleveland.

Fire Seen For Miles

The fire following the crash could be seen for miles and was not brought under control for approximately an hour, during which time police said "several bodies" could be seen in the burning wreckage.

It was not known immediately how the six persons escaped death. The figures, along with those for the total of crew and passengers, were reported by police.

The plane took off at 7:07 (EST) and crashed a few moments later near Grand Central Parkway, a trunk highway from Manhattan across Long Island which skirts LaGuardia Field.

Police cars, ambulances and five fighting vehicles quickly raced to the scene.

In Chicago, United Airlines said the pilot was Capt. B. R. Baldwin, of New York City and that he was thrown clear of the plane and listed among the survivors.

Names of passengers and other crew members were not immediately available.

53 Died In Colombia Crashes

The greatest loss of life heretofore in commercial aircraft crashes in this country was on May 16, 1946, when 27 died in the crash of a plane near Richmond, Va., and on March 3, 1946, when the same number was killed when an airliner struck a California mountain.

Elsewhere in the world, however, 53 died in each of two different crashes—both in Colombia, South America. The first was in 1938, when a plane crashed into a crowd at Bogota, and the second was last February 15 when another craft struck a mountain. Forty-nine were killed in a Moscow accident in 1935, and 43 died last January 5 in the crash of a Chinese airliner at Tsingtao, China.

Three Missing In B-29 Crash

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 29 (AP) —A B-29 bomber crashed and burned shortly after taking off from Ladd Field here today and the Army Public Relations Office said three men were reported missing.

The other nine members of the crew escaped serious injury but were brought to the Ladd Field station hospital. The crash occurred shortly after 10 a. m. (3 p. m. EST).

All of the field's rescue equipment was called into use. Small power boats were used to get help across the Chena River to the crash scene and helicopters were flown over the spot.

The plane was attached to the 46th Reconnaissance Squadron. No cause of the crash was immediately learned. A board of officers was promptly named to investigate.

Md. Phone Operators Accept New Contract

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP)—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City announced tonight that the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, representing 4,400 operators and other traffic department employes, had accepted a new work contract providing weekly wage increases of $2 and $3.

Senate Votes To Ease Rent Controls; Permissive Hikes Would Be Allowed

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Senate voted today to permit 15 per cent rent increases where tenants agree to them in exchange for leases to run through 1948.

It also voted to require the removal of rent ceilings in about 30 areas each month. There are now 620 areas under rent control.

The Senate took these actions as a prelude to voting on a bill to extend rent controls, in such revised form, until February 29, 1948. The vote on extension was put over until next week.

A 48 to 26 ballot put through the permissive rent increase, offered by Sen. Hawkes (R-NJ), a voice vote approved the idea of gradual dropping of areas under rent control. Its author was Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Eight Democrats — Byrd, Va.; Eastland, Miss.; Hoey, N. C.; Edwin C. Johnson, Colo.; O'Conor and Tydings, Md.; Holland, Fla.; and O'Daniel, Tex.—Joined 40 Republicans in favoring the Hawkes amendment. Two Republicans—Aiken, Vt.; and Langer, N. D., lined up with 24 Democrats in opposition.

The amendment, which the House has approved in slightly different form, would permit volnutary agreements on increases not to exceed 15 per cent above the rent in effect for a particular property on September 1, 1946.

Such agrements would be allowed up to December 31 next and would run through 1948.

Hawkes contended the amendment wolud not give any legal power to landlords to raise rents. He said many tenants would welcome an opportunity to negotiate with owners with the assurance their rents would not be raised more than 15 per cent after federal controls go off.

Tributes To War Dead, Pilgrimages To Graves Will Mark Memorial Day

[By The Associated Press]

Solemn tributes to the nation's war dead at ceremonies throughout the country as well as individual pilgrimages to graves of loved ones will be made today by millions of Americans in the 79th annual observance of Memorial Day.

Symbolic of the services in honor of those who fell fighting the nation's battles will be the ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia, just outside Washington, where many military heroes are buried.

Boy Scouts will decorate 70,000 Arlington graves. President Truman's wreath will be placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier by Col. Don E. Lowry, White House aide.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark will be principal speaker at the service, which will be broadcast from 10:45 a. m. to noon (EST).

For many Americans the day also marks the beginning of a three-day holiday and the opportunity for the first real outing of the season.

Rail, air and bus lines and highway officials all expected throngs at record or near-record levels for a Memorial Day weekend.

Upwards of 100,000 are expected to attend the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway race, the day's top sports event. Thousands of others were expected to flock to baseball parks, race tracks, beaches and resorts.

General John A. Logan Gave Us Memorial Day

The day after Christmas in the year 1886, a man died in the nation's capital. Today he is almost forgotten. Of this man, James G. Blaine, one time presidential nominee said, "while there have been more illustrious military leaders in the United States and more illustrious leaders in legislative halls, there has been, I think, no man in this country who has combined the two careers in so eminent a degree as General Logan.

Certainly the man of whom Blaine spoke lived a busy and useful life. His name was John A. Logan. Time has dimmed many of his undertakings. Logan was one of the harder working generals in the Civil War. He rose from the rank of colonel to major-general. His war record was notable.

In politics Logan's record was equally as distinguished. He became a congressman at the age of 32. He campaigned for Lincoln. He sat in the 40th and 41st Congress and during that time was one of the managers of the impeachment proceedings against Andrew Johnson—the only time in our history that Congress has tried to impeach a president. In 1871 he went to the Senate. Finally in 1884 he was a candidate for nomination for president at the Republican convention in Chicago. Blaine was nominated but Logan was picked as his running mate by acclaim. They were defeated by Cleveland, and Logan returned to the Senate.

That then is the career of a distinguished soldier and statesman who served his country well. As history often does to an individual, it faded that man ionto the limbo with time. Lincoln's words at Gettysburg might have been said of John Alexander Logan. . . . "The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here. . . ."

But John Logan did one thing that still lives today. On May 5, 1868, Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order appointing May 30 of that year for Grand Army services. John Logan had officially given America its traditional custom of Decoration Day, or Memorial Day as it is often called.

It is odd to note that this day of remembrance is not celebrated in many Southern states, yet, according to authoritative sources, it was originally with the Southern states and copied scatteringly by Northern states, until Gen. Logan made it official.

It is observed in the spring solely for "natural reasons." That is to say, the most appropriate date —when the flowers are freshest and the grass greenest on the graves of those who "gave their lives that this nation might live."

That new atom cloud scientists are reported experimenting on is liable to make the weather man more unpopular than ever.

Bars to European Union

Back in the early Thirties Winston Churchill put forward the idea of a united Europe. It was an idea foreign to the thinking of its time—a time of going fascism, dawning Hitlerism, Maginot mentality, ultra-nationalism, insincerity, and appeasement. Mr. Churchill, a Tory with a vision, saw the evils and their remedy. But no one of comparable vision and authority in all Europe answered and supported him.

It took a second World War—which a strong, united Europe almost surely could have prevented—to show the true value of Mr. Churchill's remedy. Europe of 15 years ago had all the necessary ingredients of that remedy except one—wisdom. Today such important ingredients as stability, prosperity, health, and strength are gone. And there is some question whether wisdom has been gained.

A few nights ago Mr. Churchill again appealed to Europe to unite. It was an eloquent, intelligent plea which took into account all the grim realities of the present.

Mr. Churchill urged a European federation as one of the "four pillars of the temple of peace." The others, he said, are the United States, the Soviet Union, and the British Commonwealth. They would support a United Nations expanded into a world super-government to prevent war.

"Are the states of Europe," Mr. Churchill asked, "to continue forever to squander the first fruits of their toil upon the erection of new barriers, military fortifications and tariff walls and passport networks against one another?"

For the most part, Europe's answer was silence. France, which with Britain would be the backbone of any European union, showed slight reaction. Her statements were too busy for comment. Most French newspapers ignored his speech.

Instead there came from France the voice of Charles DeGaulle, wartime hero, interim president, and now head of a new and somewhat disturbing political movement. Following Mr. Churchill by a day, M. DeGaulle made a speech in which he called for a "strong state" in France.

The former general said he meant by a strong state "what others mean in reference to themselves—for example, in Moscow and Washington—a state whose chief is a chief and in which no confusion of powers hampers or dilutes responsibility."

It is odd that M. DeGaulle should mention Washington and Moscow in the same breath—especially since he must know that in the U. S. the powers of government are delegated, though not confused, and that responsibility is divided, though not diluted.

If M. DeGaulle expresses a growing sentiment in France today, then the difficulties of adopting Mr. Churchill's plan are increased enormously. For the same reason the plan becomes even more urgently necessary.

If spring, more fickle than usual, doesn't soon decide to return to stay, it might as well call the whole thing off until next year.

The American Way

Foreign buyers are reported to be following the lead of shoppers here at home and "resisting" the high prices of American goods. As our financial aid to less fortunate countries increases it is comforting, perhaps, to learn that American dollars are being spent prudently abroad.

A writer calls dandelions "nature's freckles". Very apt, since dandelions are as popular with lawn owners as freckles are with a sub deb.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

GAS GANGRENE FOLLOWING INJURY

DURING the recent catastrophe in Texas, antitoxin for gas gangrene was requested by the local authorities along with plasma, penicillin, and other drugs. Many individuals have never heard of this disease since it is encountered rarely in civilian life when everything is peaceful and serene.

The infection may attack any injured person whose wounds have been contaminated with soil or dust. It should not be confused with the gangrene that develops as a result of circulatory disturbances. A gas bicillus [Clostridium] which lives normally in the intestinal tract of domestic animals, where it does no harm, is responsible.

The organism passes to the outside in the excretions and is likely to exist in fertilizer, in a resting or spore stage, for long periods of time. Should it gain entrance to the human body via cuts or open abrasions, activation takes place. Thus when war is waged in an area of cultivated farms, or if thousands are hurt as in the Texas disaster, the condition can be predicted in a certain number of victims.

Descriptions of the affliction can be found in medical writings as far back as the 16th century. It was only after the nature of the germ was understood that any suitable treatment could be devised. Before that discovery the occurrence of the malady spelled doom.

Four to five days after an accident the effects of the invasion are observed. The pulse increases, the temperature rises, and the individual becomes prostrate or extremely restless. Swelling and aching appear around the region of the lesion. Soon the microorganisms begin to produce gas which flows into the tissues. When the overlying skin is felt with the fingers, a sense of crackling beneath the surface is noted.

If the wound is open, a slightly turbid discharge exudes which often contains fat particles and bubbles of air. The involved muscles and epidermis becomes discolored, assuming a gangrenous appearance. Unless treated, inflammation may ultimately spread over a great portion of the body. Should this take place, the outcome is invariably fatal.

The gas bacillus does most of its damage by giving off a toxin which affects the system in general. This is as dangerous as the local damage to the tissues, hence an antitoxin must be used to neutralize the poison. Large doses are required. Meanwhile the sulfonamides, penicillin, and streptomycin are also given to kill the bacilli. These drugs have helped in saving many victims. The abscessed site is opened widely to allow drainage of as much material as possible.

Thru experience, physicians have learned that prevention proves more satisfactory consequently antitoxin is administered whenever there is any chance that the disease might occur. In addition the wound is cleansed thoroly. The longer this is delayed, the greater the risk of infection.

CARROTS VS. SPECS

P. L. writes: I had my eyes examined recently and the doctor says I need glasses. Some one told me that eating a carrot a day will do instead. What do you suggest?

REPLY

Glasses. Carrots may help to improve nightblindness but will never replace spectacles if nearsightedness, farsightedness, or astigmatism exists.

Today's Talk

Something To Live For

I have never been able to understand people who make the statement that there is nothing to live for. Life batters some people more than others, but many of these take the punishment as good medicine and refuse to be cast down. It is such ones who become the leaders and inspirers of us all.

People who use their God-given talents and forces to help make this a better world, soon discover that it is a very good world for them as well. The more interests one collects the happier is that individual for he keeps adding to his zest for life, and that is what smothers the selfishness in one. The more we get out of our own narrow viewpoints, and explore the world, the wider our horizon becomes.

A variety of interests help a person to find himself. The mother gives to her child, the statesman gives to his country, and the artist and writer divides his love and his ideas with all the world. Only as we give out, placing our interests with the interests of others, do we really begin to live and feel its worth.

There is so much for each of us to live for—far more than we can imagine. Each day should strengthen this fact. Nature alone is a storehouse of treasured beauty and mystery. One look at the heavens at night is enough to lift anyone out of his selfishness, as well as loneliness, and inspire him to be somebody worth while. There is no room for self-pity in the lives of any of us.

There is more work in this world to do than there are people to do it. Anyone who thinks that there is nothing for him or her to live for, can view examples all about one to disprove any such thing. Helen Keller, who is both blind and deaf from a very early age, did not give up, or think that there was nothing to live for. Through the aid of a most patient teacher she graduated with honors from Radcliffe college and for years has been one of the most inspiring persons in this world.

The more any of us do to make others happy the happier we become. In fact there is everything to live for, if you get the right viewpoint.

Democrats Put Up Stiff Fight Against Farm Appropriation Cuts; U. S. Faces Major Decision In Arming Argentina; Peron Has Partly Swallowed Chile

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The 32 per cent cut of farm funds, already causing so much GOP teeth-gnashing in the Midwest, was not achieved without some rough verbal slugging between Republicans and Democrats in the House Appropriations Committee.

Democratic Congressman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi hotly charged that the GOP Congress was "breaking faith" with the American farmer. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Chairman of the Agriculture Subcommittee on Appropriations, countered just as hotly that he and other Republicans were only trying to put the farmer "on a respectable basis" by stopping Government handouts.

"We've got to quit treating the American farmer like a serf, as they do in Russia," yelled one Republican during the closed-door melee.

"Well, you folks have got the votes, so there is nothing we can do," angrily declared Mississippi's Whitten. "We of the minority are tilting at windmills. This very subcommittee has been rigged against us. You've got five Republicans on the Agriculture Subcommittee to three Democrats, whereas all the other subcommittees are divided four to three."

Whitten leveled his "break faith" charge mainly at the extremely large slash in soil-conservation payments—$117,000,000. The farmers, he declared, had already been "promised" this money when Congress authorized $300,000,000 last year. He added that some farmers had received full conservation allotments for 1947 in lime or fertilizer, and now the Government would not live up to its agreement to pay for them.

To this, Republicans Dirksen and Charles Plumley of Vermont countered that many farmers had been "loaded up with lime they didn't ask for" by their county agents, with the result that committee investigators had found considerable quantities of lime "rotting on farms."

The Mississippian retorted that this was news to him and certainly was not true in his farm district.

Abolishing School Lunches

However, the economy cut that drew the hottest wrath from all three Democrats—Whitten, Clarence Cannon of Missouri and Harry Sheppard of California—was the repeal of section 32 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. This sets aside 30 per cent of customs proceeds from farm imports into the United States to be used for expanding farm markets. Under this, new markets are found for surplus farm products at home and abroad. For instance, surplus potatoes are turned into starch and surplus milk has been used for school lunches.

In the last 10 years, Whitten pointed out, 81 million dollars of customs funds have gone to poultry producers; 146 million to fruit growers; 180 million to grain farmers; 125 million to dairy farmers; 154 million to cotton producers and 71 million to meat producers.

"But most important of all," said the Mississipian "a total of 204 million dollars has gone into the school-lunch program for children. Do you want to wreck that?

"The only way, under present law, that funds can be diverted to find markets for surplus farm commodities is under section 32," he continued. "The Commodity Credit Corporation, which pays support prices to insure producers a fair price for surplus products, has no powers to divert money for increased markets."

Dirksen and the Republicans conceded that this might be true, but held fast to the view that money for such purposes should be by direct Congressional appropriation, instead of allocating it from customs receipts or some other source.

Arming Dictator Peron

The United States now stands at the crossroads of major Pan-American policy—namely whether to sell or not to sell arms to Argentina.

The Latin American arms message President Truman recently sent to Congress and the expected firing of Peron's mortal enemy, Spruille Braden, as Assistant Secretary of State, all point to the beginning of a new policy—arms for Argentina.

At present, inability to buy arms is the only fly in the ointment of Argentine President Peron. Otherwise, we have perfectly normal relations. We have an Ambassador in Buenos Aires. We buy everything Argentina wants to sell except meat. We even permit Argentine airlines to operate in the United States. But we do not sell arms.

However, if the Rio de Janeiro Conference is called to set up a new security pact for the Western Hemisphere, Argentina will be brought in, which means she will also buy arms from the USA.

Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal contend that if we don't sell arms to Argentina she will buy them elsewhere; also that if the Argentine Army and Navy are trained by Americans they will be more friendly to the USA. And it is true that the Brazilian Navy and the Argentine Air Corps, both trained by U. S. naval and air men, have leaned toward the United States; while the Argentine and Brazilian ground forces, trained by Germans and French, have leaned away.

Chile Becomes "Czechoslovakia"

However, all experience points to the fact that sending armaments to Latin America leads to more revolutions and more rivalry between otherwise good neighbors. And today in South America, there is such growing fear of a military-minded Argentina that Chile is frequently referred to as the Czechoslovakia of the Western Hemisphere."

This refers to the fact that Chile, worried over Argentine airports close to her border and hard up financially, recently received a huge loan from Argentina. In return she gave Argentina a virtual mortgage on Chilean exports and imports.

President Peron, the man who has now made Chile the "Czechoslovakia of South America," happened to have been Argentine Military Attache in Chile in 1937-38, and was expelled. Reason for his expulsion: Trying to steal Chile's secret defense plans. Now, some diplomats hint, he doesn't have to steal them.

Another thing that worries Latin diplomats is Peron's background. It isn't generally known, but Peron studied Fascism under Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Italian Fascist Party. This was from 1939 to 1940 when Peron was assigned by the Argentine General Staff to study mountain warfare in Italy. Mountain warfare, of course, is the type of warfare to be featured in any conquest of Chile.

These are only a few of the "stop-and-think-twice" question marks raised regarding President Truman's plan to send arms to Latin America. Other question marks—particularly Peron's five year plan—will be revealed in other Merry-Go-Round columns shortly.

Merry-Go-Round

Dexter Perry, of Independence, Missouri, a close friend of the President and a member of Truman's poker-playing Harpy Club, is among those indicted for vote fraud in Kansas City. . . . Immediately after Congress voted a quarter of a billion to aid Greece, the Fascist-minded Greek Government restored wartime censorship of civilian mails. Unless the USA takes a firm hand, that's how the Greek Government intends to preserve freedom — now that it's been assured of American dollars.

Babson Says Way To Reduce Prices Is To Produce More

By ROGER W. BABSON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 29 — Many ask how present high prices can be reduced. My answer is that the best way to reduce high prices is by producing more goods at lower cost. But how can costs be lowered in the face of current high wage rates? To this I reply that production costs can be reduced by increasing the investment in labor-saving machinery. This will raise the real wages for all the people — not for just the strongly organized union groups.

Lower Taxation The Key

America has heretofore outproduced the world with steadily falling prices by continually raising the amount of money per worker invested in labor-saving machinery. To keep up this progress we must have incentive: (1) To save and (2) To invest savings profitably. Unfortunately, our present system of taxation is not only destroying capital that has already been accumulated, but it is also preventing the gathering of new capital. This can only end in a declining standard of living for all.

As an example of the destruction of accumulated capital by taxation, I like to cite the story of the House of Morgan. When the elder J. P. Morgan died in 1913 he left more than $70 millions to his son. Thirty years later this son died and, after his death taxes were settled, he was able to pass on only $5 millions to his heirs. Such a destruction of capital may be good for the morals of the heirs, but it bodes ill for you and me. There is little incentive to invest more money and hire more workers under such conditions.

Common-sense Taxation

Wiping out of capital by death taxes would not be so bad if our income taxes were not also damming up the flow of new capital into industry. The bulk of savings must come from those of sufficiently large incomes to create a reservoir of capital. Yet, today an executive with a fair salary has no urge to invest in a sound stock paying 5% because his net income from that stock is reduced by two-thirds through income taxes. All incentive has been destroyed.

The President has recently asked businessmen to lower prices so as to increase the volume of production. I believe the President should direct the same advice to Congress. Just as a business can sell a greater volume of products at a lower price, so san the government expect a higher tax—take if it can increase the national income. I believe the best way to increase the national income is by lowering taxes now. The stimulus to incentive will be so great that national income will rise. Then a smaller percentage tax rate would produce a greater total federal revenue. Let the government take its own advice and lower the unit cost (i. e. taxes) of its selling pricef or its service. The serulting jump in total tax collections from a stimulated national income should soon balance the budget and leave enough to start a real job of debt retirement.

Rome, A Warning

If Senators and Congressmen would only study history in greater detail, they would see at once how many nations have been brought to their knees by burdensome taxation. More empires have been destroyed by oppressive taxes than by enemy armies. Today's heavy burden on enterprise if continued will surely lead us along the road followed by Egypt, Rome, Spain, France and now England—all sunk by taxes.

The New Deal tav policy is to soak the rich—to fleece the sheep that have the fewest votes. This may be considered "good politics", but it certainly is bad business. If Uncle Sam confiscated all incomes above $10,000 a year, the total amount of money taken in would pay less than half of the surrent annual expense of government! Of course, if that were done, there would not be any incomes above $10,000. That's what would happen to incentive. However, I warn you —our present tax course is less spectacular than such outright confiscation. But it is none the lass certain in the long run.

No Plea For Wealthy

When writing the above, I am not interested in saving money for taxpayers. That is purely secondary. The less money my heirs inherit, the better off they may be. I am interested solely in the future of U. S. voters, who sincerely hope that every Senator and Congressman feels the same way.

Several Republican Senators Are Not Voting With Party

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 29—Every time the Senate takes a vote on a major question it becomes apparent that the American people did not really elect a Republican Congress last fall. The Republicans are being held responsible far and wide for all legisative policies, but the truth is the Republicans fail often by four or five votes to show a majority.

If it were not for a dozen Democratic votes from the South, the Senate would not have revealed a majority for the passage of certain amendments vital to the tax and labor bills.

The fact is that some of the men who were elected on the Republican ticket are not voting with their party at all. Thus, some of the men who do not go along with their party on all issues are Senators Tobey of New Hampshire, Morse of Oregon, Langer of North Dakota, Cooper of Kentucky and occasionally Aiken of Vermont.

Independence of judgment is always meritorious, but it remains to be seen whether political party responsibility can be effective if each man decides for himself what the party policies should be. The Democrats are as much troubled with this dilemma as are the Republicans.

Independence Is Stressed

The difference between the two situations, however, is that the Democrats from the South represent a section and they are held together by a common interest. There is no such common denominator of policy of program as between, for example, Senator Morse of Oregon and Senator Langer of North Dakota.

The Republicans may see some of their major legislation wrecked by those who were elected as Republicans but who are voting with the New Deal Democrats with a strange consistency of record.

The only remedy for the situation is for the Republican leadership to acknowledge to the country that they do not have a party majority and that, if the nation wishes to be sure that Republican party policies are carried out, then a substantial majority of Republicans will have to be elected to the Senate in 1948 to offset those who have been deserting their party in this session.

When the reorganization law was passed to "streamline" congressional activities and methods, much was made of the fact that each party would have a policy committee. It was implied that each party should be responsible as a group and that the bi-partisan system could function best when there was party responsibility instead of blocs, each with their own concept of party responsibility.

Nobody wants to see independence of judgment abandoned. But it is one thing for certain members to differ from their party now and then. It is quite another to find certain Republicans voting against their party and taking the New Deal point of view on virtually every piece of major legislation that has been before the Senate thus far.

House Situation Different

The Republican Party has a substantial majority in the House and there the defections are not numerous and rarely represent the same combination of votes. This is because there is no deliberate insurgency on the part of any more than a small percentage. In the Senate the percentage of insurgents on the Republican side is large enough to cause the leadership to be in danger of defeat on major questions. On the tax-reduction bill which has just passed the Senate, the Republican votes of Senators Cooper of Kentucky, Langer of North Dakota and Morse of Oregon were cast against the measure. Fortunately for the Republicans, eight conservative Democrats voted for the bill—Senators O'Conor of Maryland, McCarran of Nevada, Hoey and Umstead of North Carolina, Stewart and McKellar of Tennessee, O'Daniel of Texas and George of Georgia. It is to be noted that on the tax bill Senators Tobey of New Hampshire and Aiken of Vermont voted with their Republican colleagues.

It is too early in the Republican experience to know just what is the basic reason for the defections that occur on major pieces of legislation, but it is not too early to observe that unless the Republicans can increase their majority in the next elections, the New Deal will come close to winning back the balance of power by a coalition of New Deal Republicans and northern Democrats.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

THE DEMOCRATS are making a serious mistake in playing straight party politics with tax cuts. In spite of the obvious fact that the revenue justifies a cut, they would prefer to have it come in the Summer of 1948 because then they can get kudos for their Presidential candidate. That is not even good politics. It is a counsel of desperation proposed by amateurs in national economics.

For the fiscal year 1947, the federal government's revenue is estimated at $41,400,000,000, which exceeds Mr. Truman's budgetary proposals of $37,500,000,000, obviously inflated to leave room for Republican cuts. If the American people received a dollar of value for a dollar paid, even the extreme House of Representatives allowances could be cut considerably. All this, both sides of the question know. As Senator Taft so aptly put it:

". . . there is no danger whatever in not balancing the budget. Allowing for considerable recession in the present rate of business activity, the receipts of the Government during the next fiscal year will be $41,400,000,000. If the Congress cuts $4,300,000,000 from the President's budget, as now appears likely, the expenditures of the Government will be $33,000,000,000. This would leave a surplus of $8,400,000,000. The proposed tax cut only takes $3,200,000,000 and, therefore, leaves for any possible contingencies, and for application on the debt the huge sum of $5,200,000,000."

The Democrats make the point that they want to reduce the debt. That is not bad for a party that poured billions down a sewer without any regard to the future. To quote Taft again:

"Considering that the debt was less than $22,000,000,000 when Franklin D. Roosevelt became President, and is now $260,000,000,000, debt reduction is certainly a novel concern for the Democratic party. Of course the debt should be reduced and it will be. I believe that a definite sum of about $2,000,000,000 a year should be see aside as part of the budget for debt reduction, and that all further excess of receipts should also be applied to debt reduction. But debt reduction can be at too fast a rate if we would avoid deflation. When we apply taxes to reduce debt, we take that much money out of the purchasing power of the people and do not return it."

There is a further point that can be made and that is that the President has permitted building in this country to be priced out of the market with the result that an excellent source of increased productivity, increased earning for the people and increased revenue for the government is not available at a time when this country should be going through a vast building boom out of which we should have at least five years of prosperity. The struggle within the Democratic party between New Deal socialism and traditional private enterprise is beyond doubt the cause of this disastrous confusion.

And to that must be added the President's difficulty in handling statistics. I quote Senator Taft on that:

". . . In the current year, the President underestimated the receipts and overestimated the expenditurs, so that h was wrong by $4,000,000,000. It turns oue that we are going to have a surplus in the year ending July 1, 1947, instead of a deficit. In testifying before the Committee, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder admitted that the Treasury had not re-estimated the 1948 receipts since December, even though they know they had so grossly underestimated the receipts of the current year. Obviously, he is afraid to make a new estimate for fear that it will discredit the President's argument against tax reduction; but the staff of our Joint Committee on Internal Revenue has estimated that 1948 revenues will be at least $2,500,000,000 more than the Treasury's December estimate."

The President would like to build up an enormous surplus this year. He could then give us a huge tax reduction in 1948. I would rather have mine now. A bird in the hand is better than a dozen politicians' promises. I should not mind another cut in 1948. This country does not need a government that costs more than $30,000,000,000 a year. In 1932, that government cost us $4,947,000,000; in 1939, it cost $8,765,000,000. That ain't hay.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Being in Detroit this week, I naturally went down to do a little scouting for my Cleveland Indians on their rival league leaders, the Detroit Tigers. Of course, when I went to the ball park, nobody knew me. I went incognito. I paid.

As soon as I arrived there I noticed there were two big questions on the lips of everyone, "What's Bob Hope doing here?" and "Where's Hank Greenberg?"

But I found out the reason for Detroit's success this year is based on the fact that it's an automobile center. The shortstop covers second with a 1947 convertible, and the Detroit papers won't even mention another team. Yesterday the headlines read, "Detroit power beats nine tourists."

When the Indians played Detroit Tuesday, I was right there yelling instructions to the Cleveland boys every inch of the way. Of course, after the game, Lou Boudreau, the manager, came over and let me out of the locker room.

They've had so much rain here lately it's changed the way the ball games are played. The only way to get a guy safely home from third is to throw him a life belt.

And last night I went out with a Detroit girl. I didn't mind not making a hit when I made a play for her. But after I gave her a big pitch to take her home and thought I was safe, her father threw me out. My error.

General John A. Logan Gave Us Memorial Day

The day after Christmas in the year 1886, a man died in the nation's capital. Today he is almost forgotten. Of this man, James G. Blaine, one time presidential nominee said, "while there have been more illustrious military leaders in the United States and more illustrious leaders in legislative halls, there has been, I think, no man in this country who has combined the two careers in so eminent a degree as General Logan.

Certainly the man of whom Blaine spoke lived a busy and useful life. His name was John A. Logan. Time has dimmed many of his undertakings. Logan was one of the harder working generals in the Civil War. He rose from the rank of colonel to major-general. His war record was notable.

In politics Logan's record was equally as distinguished. He became a congressman at the age of 32. He campaigned for Lincoln. He sat in the 40th and 41st Congress and during that time was one of the managers of the impeachment proceedings against Andrew Johnson—the only time in our history that Congress has tried to impeach a president. In 1871 he went to the Senate. Finally in 1884 he was a candidate for nomination for president at the Republican convention in Chicago. Blaine was nominated but Logan was picked as his running mate by acclaim. They were defeated by Cleveland, and Logan returned to the Senate.

That then is the career of a distinguished soldier and statesman who served his country well. As history often does to an individual, it faded that man ionto the limbo with time. Lincoln's words at Gettysburg might have been said of John Alexander Logan. . . . "The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here. . . ."

But John Logan did one thing that still lives today. On May 5, 1868, Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order appointing May 30 of that year for Grand Army services. John Logan had officially given America its traditional custom of Decoration Day, or Memorial Day as it is often called.

It is odd to note that this day of remembrance is not celebrated in many Southern states, yet, according to authoritative sources, it was originally with the Southern states and copied scatteringly by Northern states, until Gen. Logan made it official.

It is observed in the spring solely for "natural reasons." That is to say, the most appropriate date —when the flowers are freshest and the grass greenest on the graves of those who "gave their lives that this nation might live."

That new atom cloud scientists are reported experimenting on is liable to make the weather man more unpopular than ever.

Bars to European Union

Back in the early Thirties Winston Churchill put forward the idea of a united Europe. It was an idea foreign to the thinking of its time—a time of going fascism, dawning Hitlerism, Maginot mentality, ultra-nationalism, insincerity, and appeasement. Mr. Churchill, a Tory with a vision, saw the evils and their remedy. But no one of comparable vision and authority in all Europe answered and supported him.

It took a second World War—which a strong, united Europe almost surely could have prevented—to show the true value of Mr. Churchill's remedy. Europe of 15 years ago had all the necessary ingredients of that remedy except one—wisdom. Today such important ingredients as stability, prosperity, health, and strength are gone. And there is some question whether wisdom has been gained.

A few nights ago Mr. Churchill again appealed to Europe to unite. It was an eloquent, intelligent plea which took into account all the grim realities of the present.

Mr. Churchill urged a European federation as one of the "four pillars of the temple of peace." The others, he said, are the United States, the Soviet Union, and the British Commonwealth. They would support a United Nations expanded into a world super-government to prevent war.

"Are the states of Europe," Mr. Churchill asked, "to continue forever to squander the first fruits of their toil upon the erection of new barriers, military fortifications and tariff walls and passport networks against one another?"

For the most part, Europe's answer was silence. France, which with Britain would be the backbone of any European union, showed slight reaction. Her statements were too busy for comment. Most French newspapers ignored his speech.

Instead there came from France the voice of Charles DeGaulle, wartime hero, interim president, and now head of a new and somewhat disturbing political movement. Following Mr. Churchill by a day, M. DeGaulle made a speech in which he called for a "strong state" in France.

The former general said he meant by a strong state "what others mean in reference to themselves—for example, in Moscow and Washington—a state whose chief is a chief and in which no confusion of powers hampers or dilutes responsibility."

It is odd that M. DeGaulle should mention Washington and Moscow in the same breath—especially since he must know that in the U. S. the powers of government are delegated, though not confused, and that responsibility is divided, though not diluted.

If M. DeGaulle expresses a growing sentiment in France today, then the difficulties of adopting Mr. Churchill's plan are increased enormously. For the same reason the plan becomes even more urgently necessary.

If spring, more fickle than usual, doesn't soon decide to return to stay, it might as well call the whole thing off until next year.

The American Way

Foreign buyers are reported to be following the lead of shoppers here at home and "resisting" the high prices of American goods. As our financial aid to less fortunate countries increases it is comforting, perhaps, to learn that American dollars are being spent prudently abroad.

A writer calls dandelions "nature's freckles". Very apt, since dandelions are as popular with lawn owners as freckles are with a sub deb.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

GAS GANGRENE FOLLOWING INJURY

DURING the recent catastrophe in Texas, antitoxin for gas gangrene was requested by the local authorities along with plasma, penicillin, and other drugs. Many individuals have never heard of this disease since it is encountered rarely in civilian life when everything is peaceful and serene.

The infection may attack any injured person whose wounds have been contaminated with soil or dust. It should not be confused with the gangrene that develops as a result of circulatory disturbances. A gas bicillus [Clostridium] which lives normally in the intestinal tract of domestic animals, where it does no harm, is responsible.

The organism passes to the outside in the excretions and is likely to exist in fertilizer, in a resting or spore stage, for long periods of time. Should it gain entrance to the human body via cuts or open abrasions, activation takes place. Thus when war is waged in an area of cultivated farms, or if thousands are hurt as in the Texas disaster, the condition can be predicted in a certain number of victims.

Descriptions of the affliction can be found in medical writings as far back as the 16th century. It was only after the nature of the germ was understood that any suitable treatment could be devised. Before that discovery the occurrence of the malady spelled doom.

Four to five days after an accident the effects of the invasion are observed. The pulse increases, the temperature rises, and the individual becomes prostrate or extremely restless. Swelling and aching appear around the region of the lesion. Soon the microorganisms begin to produce gas which flows into the tissues. When the overlying skin is felt with the fingers, a sense of crackling beneath the surface is noted.

If the wound is open, a slightly turbid discharge exudes which often contains fat particles and bubbles of air. The involved muscles and epidermis becomes discolored, assuming a gangrenous appearance. Unless treated, inflammation may ultimately spread over a great portion of the body. Should this take place, the outcome is invariably fatal.

The gas bacillus does most of its damage by giving off a toxin which affects the system in general. This is as dangerous as the local damage to the tissues, hence an antitoxin must be used to neutralize the poison. Large doses are required. Meanwhile the sulfonamides, penicillin, and streptomycin are also given to kill the bacilli. These drugs have helped in saving many victims. The abscessed site is opened widely to allow drainage of as much material as possible.

Thru experience, physicians have learned that prevention proves more satisfactory consequently antitoxin is administered whenever there is any chance that the disease might occur. In addition the wound is cleansed thoroly. The longer this is delayed, the greater the risk of infection.

CARROTS VS. SPECS

P. L. writes: I had my eyes examined recently and the doctor says I need glasses. Some one told me that eating a carrot a day will do instead. What do you suggest?

REPLY

Glasses. Carrots may help to improve nightblindness but will never replace spectacles if nearsightedness, farsightedness, or astigmatism exists.

Something To Live For

I have never been able to understand people who make the statement that there is nothing to live for. Life batters some people more than others, but many of these take the punishment as good medicine and refuse to be cast down. It is such ones who become the leaders and inspirers of us all.

People who use their God-given talents and forces to help make this a better world, soon discover that it is a very good world for them as well. The more interests one collects the happier is that individual for he keeps adding to his zest for life, and that is what smothers the selfishness in one. The more we get out of our own narrow viewpoints, and explore the world, the wider our horizon becomes.

A variety of interests help a person to find himself. The mother gives to her child, the statesman gives to his country, and the artist and writer divides his love and his ideas with all the world. Only as we give out, placing our interests with the interests of others, do we really begin to live and feel its worth.

There is so much for each of us to live for—far more than we can imagine. Each day should strengthen this fact. Nature alone is a storehouse of treasured beauty and mystery. One look at the heavens at night is enough to lift anyone out of his selfishness, as well as loneliness, and inspire him to be somebody worth while. There is no room for self-pity in the lives of any of us.

There is more work in this world to do than there are people to do it. Anyone who thinks that there is nothing for him or her to live for, can view examples all about one to disprove any such thing. Helen Keller, who is both blind and deaf from a very early age, did not give up, or think that there was nothing to live for. Through the aid of a most patient teacher she graduated with honors from Radcliffe college and for years has been one of the most inspiring persons in this world.

The more any of us do to make others happy the happier we become. In fact there is everything to live for, if you get the right viewpoint.

Democrats Put Up Stiff Fight Against Farm Appropriation Cuts; U. S. Faces Major Decision In Arming Argentina; Peron Has Partly Swallowed Chile

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The 32 per cent cut of farm funds, already causing so much GOP teeth-gnashing in the Midwest, was not achieved without some rough verbal slugging between Republicans and Democrats in the House Appropriations Committee.

Democratic Congressman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi hotly charged that the GOP Congress was "breaking faith" with the American farmer. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Chairman of the Agriculture Subcommittee on Appropriations, countered just as hotly that he and other Republicans were only trying to put the farmer "on a respectable basis" by stopping Government handouts.

"We've got to quit treating the American farmer like a serf, as they do in Russia," yelled one Republican during the closed-door melee.

"Well, you folks have got the votes, so there is nothing we can do," angrily declared Mississippi's Whitten. "We of the minority are tilting at windmills. This very subcommittee has been rigged against us. You've got five Republicans on the Agriculture Subcommittee to three Democrats, whereas all the other subcommittees are divided four to three."

Whitten leveled his "break faith" charge mainly at the extremely large slash in soil-conservation payments—$117,000,000. The farmers, he declared, had already been "promised" this money when Congress authorized $300,000,000 last year. He added that some farmers had received full conservation allotments for 1947 in lime or fertilizer, and now the Government would not live up to its agreement to pay for them.

To this, Republicans Dirksen and Charles Plumley of Vermont countered that many farmers had been "loaded up with lime they didn't ask for" by their county agents, with the result that committee investigators had found considerable quantities of lime "rotting on farms."

The Mississippian retorted that this was news to him and certainly was not true in his farm district.

Abolishing School Lunches

However, the economy cut that drew the hottest wrath from all three Democrats—Whitten, Clarence Cannon of Missouri and Harry Sheppard of California—was the repeal of section 32 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. This sets aside 30 per cent of customs proceeds from farm imports into the United States to be used for expanding farm markets. Under this, new markets are found for surplus farm products at home and abroad. For instance, surplus potatoes are turned into starch and surplus milk has been used for school lunches.

In the last 10 years, Whitten pointed out, 81 million dollars of customs funds have gone to poultry producers; 146 million to fruit growers; 180 million to grain farmers; 125 million to dairy farmers; 154 million to cotton producers and 71 million to meat producers.

"But most important of all," said the Mississipian "a total of 204 million dollars has gone into the school-lunch program for children. Do you want to wreck that?

"The only way, under present law, that funds can be diverted to find markets for surplus farm commodities is under section 32," he continued. "The Commodity Credit Corporation, which pays support prices to insure producers a fair price for surplus products, has no powers to divert money for increased markets."

Dirksen and the Republicans conceded that this might be true, but held fast to the view that money for such purposes should be by direct Congressional appropriation, instead of allocating it from customs receipts or some other source.

Arming Dictator Peron

The United States now stands at the crossroads of major Pan-American policy—namely whether to sell or not to sell arms to Argentina.

The Latin American arms message President Truman recently sent to Congress and the expected firing of Peron's mortal enemy, Spruille Braden, as Assistant Secretary of State, all point to the beginning of a new policy—arms for Argentina.

At present, inability to buy arms is the only fly in the ointment of Argentine President Peron. Otherwise, we have perfectly normal relations. We have an Ambassador in Buenos Aires. We buy everything Argentina wants to sell except meat. We even permit Argentine airlines to operate in the United States. But we do not sell arms.

However, if the Rio de Janeiro Conference is called to set up a new security pact for the Western Hemisphere, Argentina will be brought in, which means she will also buy arms from the USA.

Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal contend that if we don't sell arms to Argentina she will buy them elsewhere; also that if the Argentine Army and Navy are trained by Americans they will be more friendly to the USA. And it is true that the Brazilian Navy and the Argentine Air Corps, both trained by U. S. naval and air men, have leaned toward the United States; while the Argentine and Brazilian ground forces, trained by Germans and French, have leaned away.

Chile Becomes "Czechoslovakia"

However, all experience points to the fact that sending armaments to Latin America leads to more revolutions and more rivalry between otherwise good neighbors. And today in South America, there is such growing fear of a military-minded Argentina that Chile is frequently referred to as the Czechoslovakia of the Western Hemisphere."

This refers to the fact that Chile, worried over Argentine airports close to her border and hard up financially, recently received a huge loan from Argentina. In return she gave Argentina a virtual mortgage on Chilean exports and imports.

President Peron, the man who has now made Chile the "Czechoslovakia of South America," happened to have been Argentine Military Attache in Chile in 1937-38, and was expelled. Reason for his expulsion: Trying to steal Chile's secret defense plans. Now, some diplomats hint, he doesn't have to steal them.

Another thing that worries Latin diplomats is Peron's background. It isn't generally known, but Peron studied Fascism under Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Italian Fascist Party. This was from 1939 to 1940 when Peron was assigned by the Argentine General Staff to study mountain warfare in Italy. Mountain warfare, of course, is the type of warfare to be featured in any conquest of Chile.

These are only a few of the "stop-and-think-twice" question marks raised regarding President Truman's plan to send arms to Latin America. Other question marks—particularly Peron's five year plan—will be revealed in other Merry-Go-Round columns shortly.

Merry-Go-Round

Dexter Perry, of Independence, Missouri, a close friend of the President and a member of Truman's poker-playing Harpy Club, is among those indicted for vote fraud in Kansas City. . . . Immediately after Congress voted a quarter of a billion to aid Greece, the Fascist-minded Greek Government restored wartime censorship of civilian mails. Unless the USA takes a firm hand, that's how the Greek Government intends to preserve freedom — now that it's been assured of American dollars.

Babson Says Way To Reduce Prices Is To Produce More

By ROGER W. BABSON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 29 — Many ask how present high prices can be reduced. My answer is that the best way to reduce high prices is by producing more goods at lower cost. But how can costs be lowered in the face of current high wage rates? To this I reply that production costs can be reduced by increasing the investment in labor-saving machinery. This will raise the real wages for all the people — not for just the strongly organized union groups.

Lower Taxation The Key

America has heretofore outproduced the world with steadily falling prices by continually raising the amount of money per worker invested in labor-saving machinery. To keep up this progress we must have incentive: (1) To save and (2) To invest savings profitably. Unfortunately, our present system of taxation is not only destroying capital that has already been accumulated, but it is also preventing the gathering of new capital. This can only end in a declining standard of living for all.

As an example of the destruction of accumulated capital by taxation, I like to cite the story of the House of Morgan. When the elder J. P. Morgan died in 1913 he left more than $70 millions to his son. Thirty years later this son died and, after his death taxes were settled, he was able to pass on only $5 millions to his heirs. Such a destruction of capital may be good for the morals of the heirs, but it bodes ill for you and me. There is little incentive to invest more money and hire more workers under such conditions.

Common-sense Taxation

Wiping out of capital by death taxes would not be so bad if our income taxes were not also damming up the flow of new capital into industry. The bulk of savings must come from those of sufficiently large incomes to create a reservoir of capital. Yet, today an executive with a fair salary has no urge to invest in a sound stock paying 5% because his net income from that stock is reduced by two-thirds through income taxes. All incentive has been destroyed.

The President has recently asked businessmen to lower prices so as to increase the volume of production. I believe the President should direct the same advice to Congress. Just as a business can sell a greater volume of products at a lower price, so san the government expect a higher tax—take if it can increase the national income. I believe the best way to increase the national income is by lowering taxes now. The stimulus to incentive will be so great that national income will rise. Then a smaller percentage tax rate would produce a greater total federal revenue. Let the government take its own advice and lower the unit cost (i. e. taxes) of its selling pricef or its service. The serulting jump in total tax collections from a stimulated national income should soon balance the budget and leave enough to start a real job of debt retirement.

Rome, A Warning

If Senators and Congressmen would only study history in greater detail, they would see at once how many nations have been brought to their knees by burdensome taxation. More empires have been destroyed by oppressive taxes than by enemy armies. Today's heavy burden on enterprise if continued will surely lead us along the road followed by Egypt, Rome, Spain, France and now England—all sunk by taxes.

The New Deal tav policy is to soak the rich—to fleece the sheep that have the fewest votes. This may be considered "good politics", but it certainly is bad business. If Uncle Sam confiscated all incomes above $10,000 a year, the total amount of money taken in would pay less than half of the surrent annual expense of government! Of course, if that were done, there would not be any incomes above $10,000. That's what would happen to incentive. However, I warn you —our present tax course is less spectacular than such outright confiscation. But it is none the lass certain in the long run.

No Plea For Wealthy

When writing the above, I am not interested in saving money for taxpayers. That is purely secondary. The less money my heirs inherit, the better off they may be. I am interested solely in the future of U. S. voters, who sincerely hope that every Senator and Congressman feels the same way.

Several Republican Senators Are Not Voting With Party

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 29—Every time the Senate takes a vote on a major question it becomes apparent that the American people did not really elect a Republican Congress last fall. The Republicans are being held responsible far and wide for all legisative policies, but the truth is the Republicans fail often by four or five votes to show a majority.

If it were not for a dozen Democratic votes from the South, the Senate would not have revealed a majority for the passage of certain amendments vital to the tax and labor bills.

The fact is that some of the men who were elected on the Republican ticket are not voting with their party at all. Thus, some of the men who do not go along with their party on all issues are Senators Tobey of New Hampshire, Morse of Oregon, Langer of North Dakota, Cooper of Kentucky and occasionally Aiken of Vermont.

Independence of judgment is always meritorious, but it remains to be seen whether political party responsibility can be effective if each man decides for himself what the party policies should be. The Democrats are as much troubled with this dilemma as are the Republicans.

Independence Is Stressed

The difference between the two situations, however, is that the Democrats from the South represent a section and they are held together by a common interest. There is no such common denominator of policy of program as between, for example, Senator Morse of Oregon and Senator Langer of North Dakota.

The Republicans may see some of their major legislation wrecked by those who were elected as Republicans but who are voting with the New Deal Democrats with a strange consistency of record.

The only remedy for the situation is for the Republican leadership to acknowledge to the country that they do not have a party majority and that, if the nation wishes to be sure that Republican party policies are carried out, then a substantial majority of Republicans will have to be elected to the Senate in 1948 to offset those who have been deserting their party in this session.

When the reorganization law was passed to "streamline" congressional activities and methods, much was made of the fact that each party would have a policy committee. It was implied that each party should be responsible as a group and that the bi-partisan system could function best when there was party responsibility instead of blocs, each with their own concept of party responsibility.

Nobody wants to see independence of judgment abandoned. But it is one thing for certain members to differ from their party now and then. It is quite another to find certain Republicans voting against their party and taking the New Deal point of view on virtually every piece of major legislation that has been before the Senate thus far.

House Situation Different

The Republican Party has a substantial majority in the House and there the defections are not numerous and rarely represent the same combination of votes. This is because there is no deliberate insurgency on the part of any more than a small percentage. In the Senate the percentage of insurgents on the Republican side is large enough to cause the leadership to be in danger of defeat on major questions. On the tax-reduction bill which has just passed the Senate, the Republican votes of Senators Cooper of Kentucky, Langer of North Dakota and Morse of Oregon were cast against the measure. Fortunately for the Republicans, eight conservative Democrats voted for the bill—Senators O'Conor of Maryland, McCarran of Nevada, Hoey and Umstead of North Carolina, Stewart and McKellar of Tennessee, O'Daniel of Texas and George of Georgia. It is to be noted that on the tax bill Senators Tobey of New Hampshire and Aiken of Vermont voted with their Republican colleagues.

It is too early in the Republican experience to know just what is the basic reason for the defections that occur on major pieces of legislation, but it is not too early to observe that unless the Republicans can increase their majority in the next elections, the New Deal will come close to winning back the balance of power by a coalition of New Deal Republicans and northern Democrats.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

THE DEMOCRATS are making a serious mistake in playing straight party politics with tax cuts. In spite of the obvious fact that the revenue justifies a cut, they would prefer to have it come in the Summer of 1948 because then they can get kudos for their Presidential candidate. That is not even good politics. It is a counsel of desperation proposed by amateurs in national economics.

For the fiscal year 1947, the federal government's revenue is estimated at $41,400,000,000, which exceeds Mr. Truman's budgetary proposals of $37,500,000,000, obviously inflated to leave room for Republican cuts. If the American people received a dollar of value for a dollar paid, even the extreme House of Representatives allowances could be cut considerably. All this, both sides of the question know. As Senator Taft so aptly put it:

". . . there is no danger whatever in not balancing the budget. Allowing for considerable recession in the present rate of business activity, the receipts of the Government during the next fiscal year will be $41,400,000,000. If the Congress cuts $4,500,000,000 from the President's budget, as now appears likely, the expenditures of the Government will be $33,000,000,000. This would leave a surplus of $8,400,000,000. The proposed tax cut only takes $3,200,000,000 and, therefore, leaves for any possible contingencies, and for application on the debt the huge sum of $5,200,000,000."

The Democrats make the point that they want to reduce the debt. That is not bad for a party that poured billions down a sewer without any regard to the future. To quote Taft again:

"Considering that the debt was less than $22,000,000,000 when Franklin D. Roosevelt became President, and is now $260,000,000,000, debt reduction is certainly a novel concern for the Democratic party. Of course the debt should be reduced and it will be. I believe that a definite sum of about $2,000,000,000 a year should be set aside as part of the budget for debt reduction, and that all further excess of receipts should also be applied to debt reduction. But debt reduction can be at too fast a rate if we would avoid deflation. When we apply taxes to reduce debt, we take that much money out of the purchasing power of the people and do not return it."

There is a further point that can be made and that is that the President has permitted building in this country to be priced out of the market with the result that an excellent source of increased productivity, increased earning for the people and increased revenue for the government is not available at a time when this country should be going through a vast building boom out of which we should have at least five years of prosperity. The struggle within the Democratic party between New Deal socialism and traditional private enterprise is beyond doubt the cause of this disastrous confusion.

And to that must be added the President's difficulty in handling statistics. I quote Senator Taft on that:

". . . In the current year, the President underestimated the receipts and overestimated the expenditurs, so that h was wrong by $4,000,000,000. It turns oue that we are going to have a surplus in the year ending July 1, 1947, instead of a deficit. In testifying before the Committee, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder admitted that the Treasury had not re-estimated the 1948 receipts since December, even though they know they had so grossly underestimated the receipts of the current year. Obviously, he is afraid to make a new estimate for fear that it will discredit the President's argument against tax reduction; but the staff of our Joint Committee on Internal Revenue has estimated that 1948 revenues will be at least $2,500,000,000 more than the Treasury's December estimate."

The President would like to build up an enormous surplus this year. He could then give us a huge tax reduction in 1948. I would rather have mine now. A bird in the hand is better than a dozen politicians' promises. I should not mind another cut in 1948. This country does not need a government that costs more than $30,000,000,000 a year. In 1932, that government cost us $4,947,000,000; in 1939, it cost $8,765,000,000. That ain't hay.

Smith Street Will Be Roped Off To Protect Children

For the protection of children attending the daily vacation Bible school at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, the entire length of Smith Street from North Centre to North Mechanic Streets will be roped off for 20 minutes Monday through Friday, starting June 20, according to Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman.

Arrangements are being made by Police Commissioner William V. Keegan at the request of Rev. Philip C. Priester, pastor of the church, who told the Mayor and Council at a special meeting yesterday that children attending the Bible classes would be endangered by heavy traffic on Smith Street during their recess period.

The street will be roped off between 10:30 and 10:50 a. m. starting Friday, June 20, and from Monday through Friday thereafter through July 3, when the classes will end.

Rev. Mr. Priester said that approximately 125 children are expected to attend the vacation Bible school, which will be held from 9 a. m. until noon in the church and parish house. He will be assisted by Mrs. Albert Kliffner, in charge of the senior and intermediate departments, and Mrs. Louis Appel, in charge of the primary departments.

Classes will open and close with devotional periods, and will include Bible and hymn study, handwork, and an entertainment period, when movies will be shown.

Commencement exercises will be held Thursday, July 3, at 7:30 p. m. at the church, featuring a display of the children's handwork.

The pastor announced that the Sunday School has purchased a bus from the Albright Bus Lines, and that the bus will be put into service Sunday, June 8, for the convenience of Sunday school children and those attending morning services.

It will also be used to bring children to classes of the daily vacation Bible school, Rev. Mr. Priester said. Previously a Potomac Edison bus had been rented each Sunday, but it served only the North End section. The present bus will serve the North End, East Side and other sections if necessary. Schedules will be announced later.

Accused Of Fighting

Identified as Thomas R. Crabtree, 12 Laing Avenue, and M. C. Swick, 13 Laing Avenue, police said the two men were being held on a disorderly conduct charge resulting from a fight in the South End last night. They will be given a hearing Saturday morning in Police Court.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ACCEPT MATERIAL BID

The Board of County Commissioners yesterday accepted the bid of the Barrett Company, of Philadelphia, to furnish bituminous material for repair work on the county roads system this summer.

The Barrett Company submitted a bid to furnish one grade of Tarvia road tar at 12.09 cents per gallon, with the county applying the material with its own machinery and using county roads employes. The bid specified that if the Barrett Company applied the material the price would be 15.45 cents per gallon.

Albert S. Paye, county engineer, said that the county has the necessary machinery to do the work and the savings per gallon would justify this procedure. The material meets with specifications of the Maryland State Roads Commission, the company pointed out.

The bids called for 26,000 gallons of one grade and 114,000 of another type, but Paye said the bids specified that only 50 per cent of the amount called for would be purchased depending on the amount of money the county would receive as a result of the Sherbow Report. He said that in all probability the county would buy only half of the amount specified in the original bids.

Encampment Chairmen Are Appointed

Chairmen for the encampment to be held June 8 were appointed at the meeting of the VFW Auxiliary Tuesday night. Mrs. Grace Bosenberg will preside and district officers will be elected.

Mrs. Alice Miller was named chairman of the encampment arrangements; Mrs. Rachael Imes, credentials, and Mrs. Helene Bujac, refreshments for the social following the meeting. Representatives from Frostburg, Lonaconing and Hagerstown auxiliaries will attend.

Routine business was transacted and a memorial service held.

Strip Miners Want To Dig Up County Road

A request by William S. Jenkins attorney for a strip mine operator to cut across a county road at Vale Summit in order to strip mine coal on both sides of the highway was held in abeyance yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

Jenkins said the firm he represents would back fill the section and replace and surface the county road it would cut through.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the board, stated that there had been reports of dissatisfaction in past years where county roads had been cut through by strip mining operators.

A personal inspection will be made by the board next Tuesday afternoon, along with the county engineer, and residents of the area will be interviewed before a decision is made in the case. Jenkins pointed out that the area to be filled in after striping would provide a better appearance than at present.

Smith Street Will Be Roped Off To Protect Children

For the protection of children attending the daily vacation Bible school at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, the entire length of Smith Street from North Centre to North Mechanic Streets will be roped off for 20 minutes Monday through Friday, starting June 20, according to Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman.

Arrangements are being made by Police Commissioner William V. Keegan at the request of Rev. Philip C. Priester, pastor of the church, who told the Mayor and Council at a special meeting yesterday that children attending the Bible classes would be endangered by heavy traffic on Smith Street during their recess period.

The street will be roped off between 10:30 and 10:50 a. m. starting Friday, June 20, and from Monday through Friday thereafter through July 3, when the classes will end.

Rev. Mr. Priester said that approximately 125 children are expected to attend the vacation Bible school, which will be held from 9 a. m until noon in the church and parish house. He will be assisted by Mrs. Albert Kliffner, in charge of the senior and intermediate departments, and Mrs. Louis Appel, in charge of the primary departments.

Commencement exercises will be held Thursday, July 3, at 7:30 p. m. at the church, featuring a display of the children's handwork.

The pastor announced that the Sunday School has purchased a bus from the Albright Bus Lines, and that the bus will be put into service Sunday, June 8, for the convenience of Sunday school children and those attending morning services.

It will also be used to bring children to classes of the daily vacation Bible school, Rev. Mr. Priester said. Previously a Potomac Edison bus had been rented each Sunday, but it served only the North End section. The present bus will serve the North End, East Side and other sections if necessary. Schedules will be announced later.

They were Vivian Stewart, ladies high set and average; Vivian Crews, ladies high game; Robert Groves, men's high set; Warner Bagent, men's high game; and Marshall Adams, men's high average. The Vultures won the first half and the Crows the second half.

Woman's Civic Club Makes Tour

A group of 30 members of the Woman's Civic Club made a pilgrimage to Bedford Wednesday, with the tour arranged by Mrs. William J. Edwards, Preservation of Maryland Antiquity Group chairman.

Meeting at the Bedford Springs Hotel, the group went into town and visited the old Juliana Street school house which was erected in 1859; the old graveyard opposite, which had head stones dating back in the 18th century; the court house on the square, built in 1828, and studied records including a February 1770 deed for the land on which Bedford was built, the paper containing the commission that formed the city, a deed for the grant of land which is now Pittsburgh as well as old wills and records dating back in 1700. They also visited the court rooms and law offices.

Crossing the street the group saw the hospital, built in 1833, the original one-story 1817 Longnecker law offices; then visited 1828 portion of the old Presbyterian Church and went on to visit the old Espy home which General Washington made his headquarters in 1794 while visiting David Espy. Other points visited were the library and Elm Wood Inn before returning to the Springs Hotel for lunch.

Concluding the tour the group visited the springs, old stone mill erected in 1798 and the house the following year, after which Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, president, read a paper describing Washington's trip to Bedford Springs and the old Cumberland road.

Mrs. M. W. Bastian showed how art entered into everyday life, in speaking on "Art Is Practical," to members of the Music Group Tuesday at the library. She showed pictures illustrating the points.

Woman's Civic Club Makes Tour

A group of 30 members of the Woman's Civic Club made a pilgrimage to Bedford Wednesday, with the tour arranged by Mrs. William J. Edwards, Preservation of Maryland Antiquity Group chairman.

Meeting at the Bedford Springs Hotel, the group went into town and visited the old Juliana Street school house which was erected in 1859; the old graveyard opposite, which had head stones dating back in the 18th century; the court house on the square, built in 1828, and studied records including a February 1770 deed for the land on which Bedford was built, the paper containing the commission that formed the city, a deed for the grant of land which is now Pittsburgh as well as old wills and records dating back in 1700. They also visited the court rooms and law offices.

Crossing the street the group saw the hospital, built in 1833, the original one-story 1817 Longnecker law offices; then visited 1828 portion of the old Presbyterian Church and went on to visit the old Espy home which General Washington made his headquarters in 1794 while visiting David Espy. Other points visited were the library and Elm Wood Inn before returning to the Springs Hotel for lunch.

Concluding the tour the group visited the springs, old stone mill erected in 1798 and the house the following year, after which Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, president, read a paper describing Washington's trip to Bedford Springs and the old Cumberland road.

Mrs. M. W. Bastian showed how art entered into everyday life, in speaking on "Art Is Practical," to members of the Music Group Tuesday at the library. She showed pictures illustrating the points.

Clarence Hengst Marks Twenty-Sixth Birthday

Mrs. Hilda Hengst entertained with a banquet in honor of her husband, Clarence Hengst, celebrating his 26th birthday, earlier in the week, at their home, 123 North Mechanic Street. A pink and white color scheme was carried out in bouquets of carnations, snapdragons and gladioli which decorated the table and house.

Mr. Hengst served two years in the India-Burma theater, with the army medical corps. The former Miss Hilda Burkett and Clarence Hengst were married last August, a month after his return from foreign service. He is employed as a chemist at the Celanese plant.

Guests attending were Thelma Burkett, Ruth Valendas, Michael Valendas, Gueneva Kniseley, Charles Kniseley, Laverne Wilt, Virginia Burkett, Orville Burkett, Devan Burkett, Jack Drummond and Melvin Evans.

According to the Bible, Jubal is the inventor of the harp. The improvements which have rendered the modern harp an efficient musical instrument are credited to Sebastian Erard, who took out a patent for a harp with seven pedals in 1794, and again in 1808 for a double-action harp, each of which alteration effects two changes in the pitch of the strings. During the 19th century various improvements were made over Erard's harp.

Philip G. Bridges Weds Opal Barber

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barber, Baltimore, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Opal Estaline Barber, to Philip Grover Bridges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover P. Bridges, Flintstone.

Rev. Francis McVeigh officiated at the wedding ceremony at 2 o'clock May 24 in St. Ignatius Catholic Church, Baltimore. Miss Mabel Barber was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Alice Chalk and Mrs. Dawn Barber, sisters-in law of the bride, were the bridesmaids. James H. Barber, brother of the bride, served as Mr. Bridges' best man.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin, made with sweetheart neckline, long tapering sleeves and a full skirt ending in a long sweeping train. Her fingertip length veil was held by a coronet of seed pearls and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and baby breath.

Her maid of honor wore a baby blue organdy gown over satin, made with deep V neckline and full skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her bridesmaids wore pink taffeta gowns with small pink hats and fingertip length veils. Oldfashioned bouquets of mixed flowers completed their costumes.

Mrs. Bridges chose a black lace dress for her son's wedding, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Barber entertained with a reception following the ceremony. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations with red roses and tall white candles. A tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the refreshment table.

Mr. Bridges and his bride left for a two week trip through the south. The bride chose a navy blue suit with white accessories for traveling. With it she wore a corsage of white roses. Upon their return they will reside in Baltimore, where the bridegroom is employed.

Dream on, young lady. Dream of what tomorrow holds in store for you and those you love. Dream of the home and family that will be yours . . . of the happiness the years so richly promise.

But wait! Are day-dreams enough!

They merely give us visions of things hoped for—as yet unseen. Like the sculptor, who brings from rough-hewn rock the graceful lines of his once-untried dreams. we must shape and mold the character which will measure up to ours.

And even this is not enough!

To find the tools and skills with which to fashion the fullness of our dreams we must sit at the feet of the Master Sculptor, and learn from Him the art of fashioning life.

The Church reveals these priceless truths of God. The Church shows us how to use them . . . how to bring the real beauty out of life's roughness . . . how to improve each all-important detail until our dreams come true. Make the Church your workshop for molding a great tomorrow!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

Dream on, young lady. Dream of what tomorrow holds in store for you and those you love. Dream of the home and family that will be yours . . . of the happiness the years so richly promise.

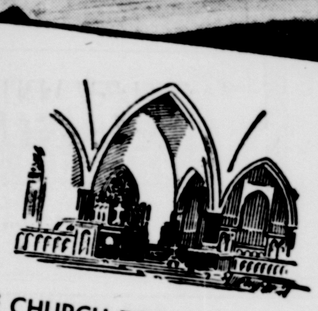
But wait! Are day-dreams enough!

They merely give us visions of things hoped for—as yet unseen. Like the sculptor, who brings from rough-hewn rock the graceful lines of his once-untried dreams, we must shape and mold the character which will measure up to ours.

And even this is not enough!

To find the tools and skills with which to fashion the fullness of our dreams we must sit at the feet of the Master Sculptor, and learn from Him the art of fashioning life.

The Church reveals these priceless truths of God. The Church shows us how to use them . . . how to bring the real beauty out of life's roughness . . . how to improve each all-important detail until our dreams come true. Make the Church your workshop for molding a great tomorrow!



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

Hopes Dim

tablish a 24 hour picket line at the plant, union officials said, who added they would expect picket lines tc be respected by everybody, including staff employes and persons delivering food and supplies.

The general committee, Coleman said, expects all employes to stay on their jobs up to the deadline.

Payton said the union will meet wit hthe company this morning and that a special meeting of the general committee will be held Saturday at 10:30 a. m. at the union hall.

The union was informed last night that Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, acting commissioner of labor and industry for Maryland, has been assigned by Governor Lane to assist in the settlement of the dispute here.

On a dollar and cent basis alone, the company and union are still far apart. The company estimates its offers would mean an increase in the annual payroll of $1,446,000, equivalent to an 8.5 cent hourly increase in the payroll costs, and estimated the union demands would cost $3,910,120, or 23 cents an hour average. The difference amounts to $2,464,120, or 14.5 per hour average, the company asserts.

Disagree On One Issue

The union and company were in sharp disagreement yesterday over one issue. The company contends it has made the union an offer which is equivalent to an increase of 8.5 cents.

William Boyd Coleman, president, and John G. Thomas, business manager of the local, said the company offered the equivalent of three cents or possibly 3.2 on the basis of the company's figures.

"The company reports it has offered a participating pension plan which would cost it $900,000 or the equivalent of 5.3 cents an hour. No such offer has been made to us," Thomas said.

"The company declined to discuss a pension proposal and we have not been informed officially as to its probable cost or equivalent. Company representatives said they were not prepared to talk pensions but admitted that a plan was to be offered. They insisted the plan was to be something outside the contract."

Speaking for the company, Allan said the union cannot say it did not know of the pension plan because company negotiators indicated such a plan is in the making.

He also said the union withdrew its pension demand after it was advised the company planned such a step.

No general wage increase was requested by the union in the current wage talks. (The union won a 13 cents hourly wage increase in January to bring the average wage at the plant to around $1.17½.)

That increase, when added to the eight-cent boost of May, 1946, and 10 cents in September, 1945, made a total of 31 cents since V-J day.

Both company and union officials branded as false a rumor that the company was asking the union to take an eight-cent reduction in wages.

No. 4 Mary Had a Little Lamb

THIS IS THE STORY . . .

Mary had a little lamb who was as white as snow—he followed Mary everywhere no matter where she'd go. And then one day when Mary left he followed her to school—and went right in although he knew it was against the rule! For Mary told him often, "Lambs can't go to school, you see — and that is why you'll always have to wait outside for me!" And then, when Mary saw him she could scarce believe her eyes—and all the children laughed and said, "This is a nice surprise!" But Mary's teacher smiled and said, "I'm very sorry, dear—a lamb is nice to have but you must take him out of here." So Mary took the lamb outside and felt so sad and blue—to think that he had done just what she'd told him not to do. The little lamb was so ashamed and felt so awful bad—it almost broke his heart to see that Mary felt so sad. So he decided right away he wanted to be good—and said to Mary, "From now on, I'll mind you like I should." And that's exactly what he did—so starting there and then, he always was a perfect lamb—and never ba-a-ad again!

Walters, pastor of the church for three years, recently resigned to accept a call to the Glen Burnie Baptist Church, Glen Burnie, Md. The reception was attended by approximately 50 persons. In addition to a debt of approximately $400 has been paid and a building program, costing about $2,500 has been completed, including general repairs, new concrete floor in the Sunday school room, redecorating the interior of the church, new equipment for the kitchen and other miscellaneous work.

Rev. and Mrs. Walters organized a Baptist Training Union here with a membership of 50 and they also took an active part in Daily Vacation Bible School work.

tablish a 24 hour picket line at the plant, union officials said, who added they would expect picket lines to be respected by everybody, including staff employes and persons delivering food and supplies.

The general committee, Coleman said, expects all employes to stay on their jobs up to the deadline.

Payton said the union will meet wit hthe company this morning and that a special meeting of the general committee will be held Saturday at 10:30 a. m. at the union hall.

The union was informed last night that Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, acting commissioner of labor and industry for Maryland, has been assigned by Governor Lane to assist in the settlement of the dispute here.

On a dollar and cent basis alone, the company and union are still far apart. The company estimates its offers would mean an increase in the annual payroll of $1,446,000, equivalent to an 8.5 cent hourly increase in the payroll costs, and estimated the union demands would cost $3,910,120, or 23 cents an hour average. The difference amounts to $2,464,120, or 14.5 per hour average, the company asserts.

The union and company were in sharp disagreement yesterday over one issue. The company contends it has made the union an offer which is equivalent to an increase of 8.5 cents.

28 Cars Slated To Start Event At Indianapolis

Bill Holland's Time Of 128.756 MPH Best

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (AP) — Veteran drivers and track-proved, big-bore engines will predominate tomorrow in the 31st running of the 500-mile Memorial Day race over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 2½-mile oval.

The race will be broadcast on the radio, commencing at 10:45 a. m., with pickups at 12:45 and 2 p. m.

The drivers got their final instructions today in an outdoor session under overcast skies and with a cold wind whistling through the infield.

But, the speedway's fabulous luck is expected to continue tomorrow. The weather bureau predicted sunshine, but continued cool weather, which will favor high speeds. The race has been postponed only once—in 1915—although the 1926 event was stopped at 400 miles by rain.

100,000 May See Race

The cars waiting to grab choice parking space were late in forming this year, but the lines were lengthening rapidly today. The speedway was prepared to handle a crowd of more than 100,000.

The late settlement of a prize money dispute with the American Society of Professional Automobile Racers brought most of the "name" drivers to the track.

In the pole position will be methodical Ted Horn of Paterson, N. J., no worse than fourth in the last seven races. Beside him will be Cliff Bergere of Toledo, O., who has driven nearly 6,000 miles in speedway competition, but has yet to win, and Mauri Rose of Chicago, co-winner in 1941.

Down the line are such perennial contenders as Bill Cantlon, Russ Snowberger of Detroit, George Connor of Los Angeles, Duke Nalon of Los Angeles and Al Miller of Standish, Mich.

Rex. Mays of Glendale, Calif., who won second money on two occasions, will be back in the middle of the seventh row.

Holland's Run Is Best

Experienced hands in gasoline alley were sold on Bill Holland, the roller-skater from Bridgeport, Conn., who topped all qualifiers with a speed of 128.756 miles an hour in a new Blue Crown Spark Plug Special.

Promising pre-race runs also were made by newcomers Walt Brown of Massapequa, N. Y., Pete Romcevich of Gary, Ind., Les Anderson of Portland, Ore., Fred Agabashian of Albany, Cal., and Charles Van Acke of South Bend, Ind.

A check of engine specifications shows American race car builders have declined to follow European trends toward small, high-precision motors.

The durable Offenhausers, along with their successors, the Meyer-Drakes, again predominate with 15 engines in the 28-car field. There are four Millers and modified Millers, three Italian Alfa-Romeos, two Italian Maseratis, two Winfields, a Mercury-Grancor and a German Mercedes.

More than 10,000 men have played in the major leagues but only 80 have collected 2,000 hits or more.

FIRST METHODIST COPS 11TH IN ROW

First Methodist rang up its tenth straight victory in the Central YMCA Sunday School Softball League by defeating Grace Methodist yesterday at Fort Hill field by the score of 18-14.

The unbeaten team needs only one more victory to complete its regular schedule with a perfect record. Manager Bob Twigg's tossers conclude their regular campaign with Second Baptist next week.

Crabtree with a homer, double and single, Ronnie Sisk, Don Shrout and "Sonny" Wertz with three blows each, Davis with two bingles and Moomau a homer led the winners' 18-hit attack. Lattimer garnered a triple and two singles, Owens two doubles and Haines two singles to pace the losing team. Score:

CLEVELAND KNOCKS FULL GAME OFF DETROIT'S LEAGUE LEAD

Red Embree Masters Pace Setters, 4-1

DETROIT, May 29 (AP)—Charles (Red) Embree, determined little Cleveland righthander, turned the tables on the Detroit Tigers today with a four-hit pitching performance that was worth a 4 to 1 triumph over the same Detroit club that twice this season had beaten him by shutout scores.

Rattling 10 hits off Paul (Dizzy) Trout to score twice in the second inning and twice more in the ninth, the Indians knocked a full game off Detroit's league lead, which now stands at 2½ games over the second place New York Yankees. Box:

LASALLE AND BEALL GAME MONDAY COULD DECIDE LOOP TITLE

For the fourth time this season rain prevented Beall High School's baseball team from meeting a Cumberland team when a downpour about 3 p. m. yesterday washed out the Beall-Allegany contest at Campobello.

Jupe Pluvius stopped Beall twice from keeping appointments with LaSalle and once with Fort Hill.

The AHS-Beall game was rescheduled for next Thursday at 4 p. m. at Campobello, if the outcome will have any bearing on the Tri-County Conference championship race between Beall and LaSalle.

If Beall defeats LaSalle here Monday in a game scheduled for 3:30 at Community Park the Frostburg team will win the championship. A LaSalle victory, however, would mean that Beall would have to down AHS to tie the Explorers on the final day of the season.

Umpires Are Named For Softball Games

Sammy Cozad, umpire-in-chief of the City Softball League, last night announced umpiring assignments for today as follows:

At Taylor Field — Eddie Martin and Charles Morris. At Campobello — Jim Rice and Charles Kreitzburg. At East Side — Charles True and George Leith. At Rolling Mill —Jim Browning and "Buck" Frantz.

The Lacy's-American Legion game has been postponed from today until next Tuesday at Community Park. The umpires will be Martin and Kreitzburg.

Moose Tossers Wallop Jaycees

Score 10-0 Triumph, Take Second Place

Manager Lon Jackson's Loyal Order of Moose team took possession of second place in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday by walloping the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at Campobello by the score of 10-0.

It was the Moose team's fifth win against two losses. The idle Elks (4-2) dropped into third position. The Caseys lead the loop with 5-0.

Freddie Fogtman tossed a five-hitter for the winners. He and Boyd Wade knocked home runs.

The Cumberland Outdoor Club won by forfeit when Potomac Edison failed to field a team for a game at Fort Hill.

Wet grounds kept the K. of C. and Texcel Club idle while the Elks-Legion game was postponed by mutual agreement.

The Outdoor Club's record is 3-3 and Potomac Edison 2-5. Score:

Clint Hartung Returns Giants To First Place

Scores Fourth Win Over Dodgers, 5-4

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Clint Hartung, highly publicized New York Giant rookie who failed as an outfielder, hurled his mates back to the top of the National League standings today by stopping Brooklyn, 5 to 4, although he couldn't last the full nine innings.

Hartung, who didn't walk a batter, pulled out of his most serious jam in the eighth by grabbing Dixie Walker's smash and starting a double play after two men already had scored. When Gene Hermanski greeted him with a homer to open the ninth he was replaced by Ken Trinkle.

It was the fourth straight pitching triumph for the Hondo, Tex., hurricane. Box:

TURNESA, WARD AND CHAPMAN SCORE IN BRITISH AMATEUR

Eight Survive Play, Skee Riegel Beaten

CARNOUSTIE, May 28 (AP) — Three former American champions, Marvin (Bud) Ward, Willie Turnesa and Dick Chapman, slashed through today to the quarter finals of the British amateur golf championship, but a fourth Yankee aspirant, Skee Riegel, fell victim of the tournament's biggest upset when he was dumped out by a 45-year-old Scot.

Robert (Robin) Rutherford, a tall, spare mechanical engineer with a bushy mustache, held a peeve against the British Walker Cup selectors for not even inviting him to their trials earlier in the month, and he took it out on Riegel by beating the Glendale, Calif., star, 1 up, in an afternoon match.

Earlier in the day he had served the British selectors crow on a silver platter by ousting Leonard Crawley, leading singles player on their cup team, on the 19th hole.

Rutherford's triumph over Riegel brought a much-needed boost to Scottish morale after Chapman had trampled down two Highlanders during the day.

In the morning the Pinehurst, N. C., ace shunted aside Vic Finson of Carnoustie, 6 and 5, and his afternoon round he virtually ripped the long, rugged course apart as he trounced Alan Stevenson of Prestwick, 8 and 6.

He and Rutherford will clash in one of the four 18-hole quarter-final matches tomorrow morning. Ward and Turnesa will tie into each other in a second, and the remaining two will be contested between various and assorted Britons. The semi-finals are scheduled tomorrow afternoon, with the 36-hole final on Saturday.

28 Cars Slated To Start Event At Indianapolis

Bill Holland's Time Of 128.756 MPH Best

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (AP) — Veteran drivers and track-proved, big-bore engines will predominate tomorrow in the 31st running of the 500-mile Memorial Day race over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 2½-mile oval.

The race will be broadcast on the radio, commencing at 10:45 a. m., with pickups at 12:45 and 2 p. m.

The drivers got their final instructions today in an outdoor session under overcast skies and with a cold wind whistling through the infield.

But, the speedway's fabulous luck is expected to continue tomorrow. The weather bureau predicted sunshine, but continued cool weather, which will favor high speeds. The race has been postponed only once —in 1915—although the 1926 event was stopped at 400 miles by rain.

The cars waiting to grab choice parking space were late in forming this year, but the lines were lengthening rapidly today. The speedway was prepared to handle a crowd of more than 100,000.

CLEVELAND KNOCKS FULL GAME OFF DETROIT'S LEAGUE LEAD

Red Embree Masters Pace Setters, 4-1

DETROIT, May 29 (AP)—Charles (Red) Embree, determined little Cleveland righthander, turned the tables on the Detroit Tigers today with a four-hit pitching performance that was worth a 4 to 1 triumph over the same Detroit club that twice this season had beaten him by shutout scores.

Rattling 10 hits off Paul (Dizzy) Trout to score twice in the second inning and twice more in the ninth, the Indians knocked a full game off Detroit's league lead, which now stands at 2½ games over the second place New York Yankees. Box:

LASALLE AND BEALL GAME MONDAY COULD DECIDE LOOP TITLE

For the fourth time this season rain prevented Beall High School's baseball team from meeting a Cumberland team when a downpour about 3 p. m. yesterday washed out the Beall-Allegany contest at Campobello.

Jupe Pluvius stopped Beall twice from keeping appointments with LaSalle and once with Fort Hill.

The AHS-Beall game was rescheduled for next Thursday at 4 p. m. at Campobello, if the outcome will have any bearing on the Tri-County Conference championship race between Beall and LaSalle.

If Beall defeats LaSalle here Monday in a game scheduled for 3:30 at Community Park the Frostburg team will win the championship. A LaSalle victory, however, would mean that Beall would have to down AHS to tie the Explorers on the final day of the season.

Umpires Are Named For Softball Games

Sammy Cozad, umpire-in-chief of the City Softball League, last night announced umpiring assignments for today as follows:

At Taylor Field — Eddie Martin and Charles Morris. At Campobello — Jim Rice and Charles Kreitzburg. At East Side — Charles True and George Leith. At Rolling Mill —Jim Browning and "Buck" Frantz.

The Lacy's-American Legion game has been postponed from today until next Tuesday at Community Park. The umpires will be Martin and Kreitzburg.

Moose Tossers Wallop Jaycees

Score 10-0 Triumph, Take Second Place

Manager Lon Jackson's Loyal Order of Moose team took possession of second place in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday by walloping the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at Campobello by the score of 10-0.

It was the Moose team's fifth win against two losses. The idle Elks (4-2) dropped into third position. The Caseys lead the loop with 5-0.

Freddie Fogtman tossed a five-hitter for the winners. He and Boyd Wade knocked home runs.

The Cumberland Outdoor Club won by forfeit when Potomac Edison failed to field a team for a game at Fort Hill.

Wet grounds kept the K. of C. and Texcel Club idle while the Elks-Legion game was postponed by mutual agreement.

The Outdoor Club's record is 3-3 and Potomac Edison 2-5. Score:

Robert Stallings reached the finals of the fifth flight in the men's spring tournament by defeating Morton Peskin, 1 up on the 19th hole.

A flag tournament for men golfers is scheduled for today.

Lauder's Birds Win

George Lauder's Black Beauty and Blue Girl finished one-two in the 215-mile race staged Sunday by the Algonquin Pigeon Club from Chillicothe, Ohio.

The birds were liberated at 9 a. m., and the first bird was homed at 2:11.13 p. m., the flying time being 5 hours, 11 minutes, 13 seconds.

Clint Hartung Returns Giants To First Place

Scores Fourth Win Over Dodgers, 5-4

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Clint Hartung, highly publicized New York Giant rookie who failed as an outfielder, hurled his mates back to the top of the National League standings today by stopping Brooklyn, 5 to 4, although he couldn't last the full nine innings.

Hartung, who didn't walk a batter, pulled out of his most serious jam in the eighth by grabbing Dixie Walker's smash and starting a double play after two men already had scored. When Gene Hermanski greeted him with a homer to open the ninth he was replaced by Ken Trinkle.

It was the fourth straight pitching triumph for the Hondo, Tex., hurricane. Box:

The hit culminated a two-run uprising that enabled the Macks to overcome a 1-2 deficit, a single by Buddy Rosar and a triple by Hank Majeski produced the first run. A walk and a double by Eddie Joost in the fifth accounted for the only other run. Box:

TURNESA, WARD AND CHAPMAN SCORE IN BRITISH AMATEUR

Eight Survive Play, Skee Riegel Beaten

CARNOUSTIE, May 28 (AP) — Three former American champions, Marvin (Bud) Ward, Willie Turnesa and Dick Chapman, slashed through today to the quarter finals of the British amateur golf championship, but a fourth Yankee aspirant, Skee Riegel, fell victim of the tournament's biggest upset when he was dumped out by a 45-year-old Scot.

Robert (Robin) Rutherford, a tall, spare mechanical engineer with a bushy mustache, held a peeve against the British Walker Cup selectors for not even inviting him to their trials earlier in the month, and he took it out on Riegel by beating the Glendale, Calif., star, 1 up, in an afternoon match.

Earlier in the day he had served the British selectors crow on a silver platter by ousting Leonard Crawley, leading singles player on their cup team, on the 19th hole.

Rutherford's triumph over Riegel brought a much-needed boost to Scottish morale after Chapman had trampled down two Highlanders during the day.

In the morning the Pinehurst, N. C., ace shunted aside Vic Finson of Carnoustie, 6 and 5, and his afternoon round he virtually ripped the long, rugged course apart as he trounced Alan Stevenson, of Prestwick, 8 and 6.

He and Rutherford will clash in one of the four 18-hole quarter-final matches tomorrow morning. Ward and Turnesa will tie into each other in a second, and the remaining two will be contested between various and assorted Britons. The semi-finals are scheduled tomorrow afternoon, with the 36-hole final on Saturday.

Tourney Cancelled

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 29 (AP) —Failure to agree on contract terms with the PGA has caused cancellation of the $10,000 Fort Worth Open Golf Tournament scheduled for the Glen Garden Country Club here Sept. 25-28. Pro Smiley Rowland made the announcement this morning.

Cumberland Seeks Harness Race Dates

Applications Are Filed By Eleven Maryland Tracks

Action Is Delayed By Governor Lane

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission has decided there'll be no consideration of harness racing applications until after the new chairman, Stuart S. Janney, Jr., takes office on July 1.

The commission announced today it had postponed any action on the applications, 11 of which are on file, over the objections of Chairman George P. Mahoney.

H. Courtenay Jenifer introduced a resolution "that the adoption of rules regulating harness racing and the consideration of applications xxx be postponed until after the new chairman is sworn in."

It was seconded by Frank Small, Jr. That left Mahoney to cast the only negative vote on the three-man board.

The resolution said "in the meantime the commission will assemble general information relating to harness racing and be prepared to confer with and submit to the governor its suggestion and recommendations."

The delaying action was in conformity with a request by Governor Lane. Mahoney had called a meeting May 22 to consider the applications. The governor wired "request that no applications for harness racing permits be entertained or considered until after I have had an opportunity to discuss what the state's policy shall be."

The commission said 11 applications had been received under the law passed earlier this year permitting 100 days of harness racing with pari-mutuel betting.

They were identified as:

Harford County Fair Association, Inc.; Eastern Shore Trotting Association; Severn Trotting Association, Anne Arundel County; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pistorio, Howard County; Rosecraft Trotting and Pacing Association, Prince Georges County; Southern Maryland Agricultural Association (operators of Bowie and Marlborough flat tracks); Anne Arundel Horse Club, Inc.; Cumberland Fair Association; Baltimore County Harness Association; and Bruce Livie, Howard county.

RIDGELEY AND MOOSE PLAN BENEFIT GAME FOR "HICKEY" SPEIR

It will be William J. "Hickey" Speir Day Sunday at Ridgeley when the Ridgeley American Legion plays host to the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose in an Interstate Baseball game at 3 p. m.

Speir, member of the Ridgeley nine, suffered a broken leg while in the game with the Centerville Reds on Sunday, May 18. He spent four days in a local hospital and his leg is now in a cast. Proceeds of Sunday's game will be used to help defray Speir's hospital bill.

On the same day the Ridgeley home diamond will be dedicated as "Carpenter Field" in honor of Frank Carpenter, donor of the field. Efforts are being made to have the Cumberland Moose band give a concert on the occasion and Ridgeley town officials have been invited to participate in the exercises.

Three Twin Bills Scheduled Today On Local Fields

Westvaco And Amvets Play At South End

Three doubleheaders on Memorial Day. That's the baseball dish for Cumberlanders staying at home today:

The No. 1 attraction, of course, is the Westvaco-Amvets contests at Taylor Field. These clubs hold second and third place in the Bi-State League, and Westvaco, 1946 champion, looms as the "team to beat" this year.

At Community Park, William "Boots" miller's undefeated Cumberland Eagles will play hosts to the unbeaten Barrelville Club while in another Interstate League dual bill the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose will play the Naval Reserve at Stitcher Field.

Holiday twin bills in both leagues will get underway at 1:30 o'clock.

After Westvaco and the Amvets get through slapping each other around today, Norman Gerdeman's Amvets run smack into the Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen, boasting a 6-0 record at present, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at Taylor Field.

The Moose-Centerville postponed game of last Sunday will be played Saturday at Centerville, Pa.

Here's the schedule for the two days:

BI-STATE LEAGUE

TODAY—Westvaco at Amvets, Queen City at Lonaconing, Barton at Prostburg, Midland at Mt. Savage, Hyndman at Romney. All double headers.

SUNDAY—Hyndman at Amvets, Queen City at Barton, Westvaco at Mt. Savage, Prostburg at Midland, Lonaconing at Romney. Games at 2:30 p. m.

INTERSTATE LEAGUE

TODAY—Naval Reserves at Moose, Barrelville at Eagles, Ridgeley at Moorefield, Cumberland Legion at Centerville. All double headers.

SUNDAY—Barrelville at Cumberland Legion (Community Park), Eagles at Moorefield, Naval Reserves at Centerville, Moose at Ridgeley. Games at 3 p. m.

Cumberland Seeks Harness Race Dates

Applications Are Filed By Eleven Maryland Tracks

Action Is Delayed By Governor Lane

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission has decided there'll be no consideration of harness racing applications until after the new chairman, Stuart S. Janney, Jr., takes office on July 1.

The commission announced today it had postponed any action on the applications, 11 of which are on file, over the objections of Chairman George P. Mahoney.

H. Courtenay Jenifer introduced a resolution "that the adoption of rules regulating harness racing and the consideration of applications xxx be postponed until after the new chairman is sworn in."

It was seconded by Frank Small, Jr. That left Mahoney to cast the only negative vote on the three-man board.

The resolution said "in the meantime the commission will assemble general information relating to harness racing and be prepared to confer with and submit to the governor its suggestion and recommendations."

The delaying action was in conformity with a request by Governor Lane. Mahoney had called a meeting May 22 to consider the applications. The governor wired "request that no applications for harness racing permits be entertained or considered until after I have had an opportunity to discuss what the state's policy shall be."

The commission said 11 applications had been received under the law passed earlier this year permitting 100 days of harness racing with pari-mutuel betting.

They were identified as:

Harford County Fair Association, Inc.; Eastern Shore Trotting Association; Severn Trotting Association, Anne Arundel County; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pistorio, Howard County; Rosecraft Trotting and Pacing Association, Prince Georges County; Southern Maryland Agricultural Association (operators of Bowie and Marlborough flat tracks); Anne Arundel Horse Club, Inc.; Cumberland Fair Association; Baltimore County Harness Association; and Bruce Livie, Howard county.

RIDGELEY AND MOOSE PLAN BENEFIT GAME FOR "HICKEY" SPEIR

It will be William J. "Hickey" Speir Day Sunday at Ridgeley when the Ridgeley American Legion plays host to the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose in an Interstate Baseball game at 3 p. m.

Speir, member of the Ridgeley nine, suffered a broken leg while in the game with the Centerville Reds on Sunday, May 18. He spent four days in a local hospital and his leg is now in a cast. Proceeds of Sunday's game will be used to help defray Speir's hospital bill.

On the same day the Ridgeley home diamond will be dedicated as "Carpenter Field" in honor of Frank Carpenter, donor of the field. Efforts are being made to have the Cumberland Moose band give a concert on the occasion and Ridgeley town officials have been invited to participate in the exercises.

Three Twin Bills Scheduled Today On Local Fields

Westvaco And Amvets Play At South End

Three doubleheaders on Memorial Day. That's the baseball dish for Cumberlanders staying at home today:

The No. 1 attraction, of course, is the Westvaco-Amvets contests at Taylor Field. These clubs hold second and third place in the Bi-State League, and Westvaco, 1946 champion, looms as the "team to beat" this year.

At Community Park, William "Boots" miller's undefeated Cumberland Eagles will play hosts to the unbeaten Barrelville Club while in another Interstate League dual bill the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose will play the Naval Reserve at Stitcher Field.

Holiday twin bills in both leagues will get underway at 1:30 o'clock.

After Westvaco and the Amvets get through slapping each other around today, Norman Gerdeman's Amvets run smack into the Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen, boasting a 6-0 record at present, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at Taylor Field.

The Moose-Centerville postponed game of last Sunday will be played Saturday at Centerville, Pa.

Here's the schedule for the two days:

BI-STATE LEAGUE

TODAY—Westvaco at Amvets, Queen City at Lonaconing, Barton at Frostburg, Midland at Mt. Savage, Hyndman at Romney. All double headers.

SUNDAY—Hyndman at Amvets, Queen City at Barton, Westvaco at Mt. Savage, Frostburg at Midland, Lonaconing at Romney. Games at 2:30 p. m.

INTERSTATE LEAGUE

TODAY—Naval Reserves at Moose, Barrelville at Eagles, Ridgeley at Moorefield, Cumberland Legion at Centerville. All double headers.

SUNDAY—Barrelville at Cumberland Legion (Community Park), Eagles at Moorefield, Naval Reserves at Centerville, Moose at Ridgeley. Games at 3 p. m.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Humanized Ballplayers

Television cameramen at a baseball game have a job not much different from that of a novelist; they must pick up and emphasize the significant detail from the mass of the extraneous. They succeed in this task only intermittently but when they do, the result is not so much a baseball game as an impressionist version of one.

A lot of details that you either don't notice at a baseball game or don't pay much heed to are brought sharply to your attention. The disenchanted look on a batter who has just swung wildly and inadvisedly at a sinker for a third strike, for instance. The truculent stance of an umpire asserting his authority over an outraged ball-player. The camera, in fact, brings the personality of the players right into the livingroom, which is not necessarily a happy state of affairs. Some ballplayers' personalities can't stand such a close scrutiny. In fact, to interject a gray and rather horrible thought, the baseball heroes of the television future may not be the ones with the best batting averages but the men with the prettiest smiles and most photogenic mannerisms.

The camera picks up a lot of comedy, some of it rather embarrassing for the televisers. Some ballplayers, for instance, employ extremely salty language to express their opinions, especially the unfavorable ones. While you can't hear this over a television set, anyone with the most fragmentary knowledge of lip-reading can readily understand it.

At a recent game at Ebbets Field, umpire George Magerkurth cleared the Dodger bench as a result of various remarks about his eyesight and parentage which emanated from there. The camera showed the Dodgers reluctantly filing out, each one passing at the dugout door to amplify his earlier remarks about Mr. Magerkurth.

The cameras are equipped for long and medium shots, and close-ups. Long shots are infrequently used because the players are reduced to minute size. The most oft used shot is the medium which is wide-angled enough to show both the batter and the pitcher. Because the cameras are placed directly above and behind the batter, this gives a curiously foreshortened view of the distance between batter and pitcher, as if the pitcher were right on top of the plate. However, you get an excellent view of the pitch and can usually pick your own balls and strikes accurately. Unless your eyesight is better than mine, fast balls may disappear on you.

As for the hits, I can hear the crack of the bat and see the batter take off for first base but I'm darned if I can follow the ball. No one else seems to have this difficulty so you can set it down as a personal failing. On a hit, there are sharp differences in technique between stations. NBC insists that the center of play is a ball and follows it relentlessly throughout. CBS trains one camera on the ball, another on the runner, and the director selects the image which he thinks provides the most excitement. I incline toward the CBS view. A runner crossing the plate, or even rounding second, is more to the point than an outfielder throwing a baseball.

CBS is covering the Dodgers with two cameras, both directly behind the batter, after having tried three times and discarded it as impractical. NBC is using three cameras, one of which is at right angles to the first base line. Here I think NBC is on the right track. The third camera provides the best view of the field when the ball is in play.

In television, there isn't nearly as much for the announcer to do as in radio. Red Barber, the veteran baseball announcer, says he looks forward to television in much the same way a ptuagenarian looks forward to the old folks' home; he can put his feet up and take it easy. The announcer explains what's going on rather than telling what's going on. At his elbow is a monitor image, which shows him just what picture is on the air. If his attention strays too far from this—and sometimes it does—he may find himself chattering about the batter when the camera is focused on the second baseman which doesn't make a great deal of sense to the home audience.

As for the ballclub owners, their views differ on television. The open-minded owners have welcomed the television camera on an experimental basis, figuring that it can't do them any harm so long as there are so few television sets. The conservative owners—the same ones who opposed night ball games and radio—regard television as an instrument of the devil that may keep the ball fans in their own livingrooms.

This is the old, old plaint that first greeted the broadcasting of baseball games. Well, radio succeeded in recruiting a whole new audience, most of them women, for baseball; television, I predict, will do the same. Whether or not television will compete with the ball parks, it will certainly provide overwhelming competition for radio. Baseball by television beats baseball by radio all hollow.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Have you noticed the picture on the cover of "Time" magazine this week? Well, kiddies, that's not Anyface or Lena the Hyena—it's me.

Billy Rose

How did an old popcorn peddler get up there with Stalin, Durocher and fellows who steal railroads? Well, if the sergeant-at-arms will lock the doors, I'll tell you how I got to be a success.

1. Courtesy. ("Yes, sir. Thank you, sir. Drop dead, sir.")

2. Honesty. ("Here's the book I borrowed two years ago, Mrs. Schultz. Sorry it fell in the bathtub.")

3. Courage. ("He can't do that to us! Here, let me hold your coat.")

4. Planning. Carefully blueprinting your life, so you can write your diary years in advance.

That's the way Little Willie did it. Let me document it for you—but first put away those tomatoes.

To begin with, I selected my parents carefully. Too many kids let themselves be hatched by anybody who happens to be in a hatching mood. My folks never pampered me. My father was a nonpersuasive salesman. For years, the only gold in our family was in my Aunt Sarah's two front teeth. When I was born my mother looked at me and said, "Some day he'll be President!" My father looked and said, "He's all right, I guess, but what we really needed was an icebox."

In high school I concentrated on shorthand. It was part of my plan to eat regularly. I got so I could accurately transcribe anything a boss dictated, except what came between "Dear Sir" and "Yours Truly."

When I was 17, Operation Rose called for me to hitch my wagon to a big-time operator. One Sunday I planted myself alongside the railroad track up around Newburgh, N. Y. On cue, a passing freight train blew an old newspaper against my leg. I picked it up and turned to the classified ad section. There it was—"stenographers Wanted for War Agency. Apply Washington, D. C." I went there and got a job. The head man was a smart fellow named Bernard M. Baruch. For 30 years, Mr. B. has been the Mr. Big in my life. He won't know until he reads this that it was me who got Woodrow Wilson to appoint him Chairman of the War Industries Board. Part of my plan.

When I was 20, my blueprint specified I was to become a songwriter. This involved a bit of elaborate plotting. I arranged for the S. S. Comus to ram and sink a fruit freighter in a fog off Cape Hatteras. I was on the Comus, and one of the survivors it picked up was a pretty girl. When I handed her one of the five life preservers I was wearing, it started a beautiful friendship. I made a date to see her in New York. The cutie was crazy for cheesecake, and steered me to an underground delicatessen inhabited by songwriters. As we entered, I said, "Hey, sweet. Let's eat." A composer heard me, and the next thing I knew I was a songwriter. Planning does it every time.

Then the Master Plan called for "show business." I opened a giggle-gargle establishment called the Backstage Club. It was so crowded opening night there was no place for the torch singer to stand. So she sat on the piano. And that's how Helen Morgan became Helen Morgan. It's easy to discover talent if you just think ahead.

In 1935, the plot began to quicken. I persuaded John Hay Whitney's father to leave his son something like a hundred million dollars. Nice buy "Jock" financed my musical circus, "Jumbo," at the New York Hippodrome. On opening night I told my press agent, "This will make me or break Whitney."

In the Spring of '36, I arranged to be walking past an open window on the M-G-M lot in Hollywood. Rufus LeMaire happened to look out and hollered for me to come up. His friend Amon Carter in Fort Worth wanted someone to stage an Exposition there. I got the job by telling the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, "String along with me and I'll make Texas the biggest state in the Union!"

The next bit of planning was a dilly. The City Fathers of Cleveland had set up a World's Fair on the shores of Lake Erie in 1936. I fixed it for it to rain most of that season. In '37, the Cleveland officials asked me to stage a shiveree to perk up front gate attendance, I went down to the Lake to inspect the site. At that precise moment, a couple of pretties were swimming in time to a phonograph record. My eyeglasses blurred and I thought I was seeing 200 swimmers. It looked mighty pretty. Having previously provided Lake Erie for a stage and Canada for a backdrop, I naturally fell into the Aquacade.

All this time, mind you, a girl had been growing in Brooklyn. This cutie swam as beautifully as she looked. I starred her in my water show, then married her. Eleanor said it was Fate. Fate, my foot! It was all planned while she was still playing potsy on Flatbush Avenue.

Making the cover of "Time" was easy. Back in 1923, I sent an anonymous letter to Henry Luce suggesting he start the magazine. I knew it would only be a question of time before I got on the cover. After all, how many South American Presidents are there?

That's it, kiddies. To be a success, plan out your work and work out your plan.

One thing more. Never walk under a falling safe in any month with an "R" in it.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—Candy Jones is not only the most beautiful girl I have met in Manhattan in months, but she also is one of the wisest. We sat in an uptown Schrafft's the other day, idly stirring our coffees, and I asked her what it was like to be married to Harry Conover. "Andsome Harry, of course, is the model king of America, and Candy once was the prize bloom on his peach tree. She took another drag on her cigaret, looked up at me and grinned.

Candy Jones

"Well, let's face it," she said. "Harry likes women."

The Conovers have been wed for some 10 months now. They live in a little four-room apartment in Park ave. and they pass judgment on each other's clothes and they dine frequently in a little Village restaurant called Enrico and Paglieri's. I bet they're happy. But like many really feminine girls, Candy likes the company of men—and all she has heard, seen or talked about now for nearly a year is girls.

"Harry studies women as if he were a mechanic and they were some kind of foreign car to take apart," she said. "People ask me what his 'type' is. Well, the answer is, he doesn't have a type. Oh, he likes beautful women, but more than a good face or good legs, they have to have something in their face that makes them appealing—something intangible, I suppose. Then he wants to find out what makes them tick. In a way, he's an amateur psychologist; before he begins to build up a model as a star attraction, he finds out everything about her from the day she was born, so he can steer his promotion down the right channels."

It isn't quite as bad as it sounds. In the first place, Candy—who really is a Wilkes Barre, Pa., girl named Jessie Wilcox — is so breathtakingly lovely, all peaches and cream and spun-gold hair, that she doesn't have to worry too much about competition. In the second place, she likes models. Most of her best friends are in the business. Personally, I can't see models for dust, but Candy insists that they're very high type citizens, as we may say on Broadway.

WHAT MAKES the fair Candy so wise is that she realizes the paramount rule—a wife has to be seven different women to her husband. "Harry likes the outdoor, fresh type of girl," she said, "but that doesn't mean he always wants that type: One night he might feel like being out with a glamorous siren; another, he might feel like an evening home with a friend and companion. I think the smart girl, who loves her husband, tries to vary her personality, so as never to fall into a rut, never to be always the same."

They have pretty similar tastes about what constitutes a good-looking woman, but they have disagreed sharply over one — Lauren Bacall. When she was Betty Fenske, the Bronx beauty years ago, Bacall tried four times—under four different names—to get Conover to handle her modeling career. No dice. "Personally," Candy said, "I think Betty photographs beautifully. Harry still can't see it."

I never saw any girl who looked less like an ex-Girl Scout, but that's just what Candy is. She used to live in Atlantic City and I guess you could say her scouting career came to a startling end in 1941 when after her fellow scouts submitted her photograph—she was chosen "Miss Atlantic City." The same year she blew into New York and went right up to Conover's. He hired her, and in five minutes changed her name. Overnight, she became a "must" for fashion photographers. Her career reached some kind of an early peak when she inaugurated the practice of visiting places like El Morocco and the Conony and leaving on all the nearby tables cards stating sweetly "Candy Jones was here." Well, at least it got people talking about her.

In the early fall, the Conovers will be three, but Candy is still very much on the go. She's written a book, acts as mistress of ceremonies on a Friday night television show and is thinking of doing one of those Mr.-and-Mrs. radio shows (what—ANOTHER?) with Harry. And she has to keep an eagle eye on those Conover gals, too. No woman has sterner opposition.

"Two hours after Harry and I were married," she said, philosophically, "he was judging a 'Miss Canada' contest. 'Look at that one,' he would say, nudging me,' 'now THERE's a looker!' I guess I'll just have to get used to it."

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — I pinned Jack Warner down at dinner the other evening and learned that Bette Davis' first picture since she had her baby gets going August 15.

Two stories are on tap, Rebecca West's "The Return of the Soldier" and "Winter Meeting" by Ethel Vance.

Said Jack, "we'll leave it to Bette, herself, which one she wants to do, but which ever she decides on, Henry Blanke will produce."

When Queen Bette gets back, the velvet carpet will be rolled out for her on account of Jack has a tremendous liking for the Davis gal. The last time Bette and I sat down for a talk, she told me how beautifully everything had worked out for her with Warners — the company she fought tooth and nail in England a few years ago.

Lovely Anna Neagle and her director-producer husband, Herbert Wilcox have arrived in New York from England. They haven't been in Hollywood since 1941, but they will come here now to discuss with MGM the distribution of their latest picture, "Piccadilly," which, incidentally, won England's 1946 award.

Anna, who married Wilcox at the beginning of the war, was also chosen the top British actress of 1946. She starred in RKO pictures up to the time she left to offer her aid to her native land.

While here, Wilcox will arrange to borrow one of Hollywood's top stars in exchange for a British actor.

Many years ago, Queenie Smith was ballyhooed as a rival of Marilyn Miller's as the singing-dancing darling of Broadway musicals. To my mind, Marilyn never really had a rival—but that doesn't mean that Queenie wasn't a hit starring in "Hit the Deck," "Mississippi" and many others.

Lots of water has flowed under the bridge since then, but the reason Queenie crops up now is that she's heading here for the role of the confidence woman in "Sleep My Love" for Triangle.

This is th emovie starring Claudette Colbert, Robert Cummings and Don Ameche which Buddy Rogers and Ralph Cohn are producing. I hear Queenie is stilltres attractive and this may launch her on a new career.

I was pretty sure that Gail Patrick would finally say yes to "Corny" Jackson. He is so in love with her, and I knew she wasn't indifferent to him. But Gail kept saying, "A two-time loser, I'm afraid to try it again."

So, every week I telephoned her. She called me about 10 days ago with news about her fashion show which takes place today. For once I didn't ask her, so she broke down and told me, and then swore me to secrecy and said I couldn't tell right away.

I make it a rule when people tell me news to keep faith so there I was with a story all bottled up and unable to tell. Finally, Gail gave me permission to break it in the Monday papers.

She and "Corny" plan to be married in the fall, but they have no definite wedding date as yet.

Chatter in Hollywood: Joan Crawford and Greg Bautzer, as of last night, are as cold as Greenland's icy mountains. Joan says it's all off. Usually she prefaced that remark with, "of course, we're still friends." But now she's not even saying "we're friends."I don't know what happened but this time it's serious.

Looks very much to me, unless she has a complete change of heart, that marriage, which everyone thought would take place as soon as she got her divorce from Phil Terry, has been definitely called off. Last night Ava Gardner was out with Greg—at a table for two at Ciro's.

On Tuesday 3,000 boys and girls of the Boyle Heights area, who are registered as members of the Lou Costello Jr. Youth Foundation, are going to figure in a real Hollywood motion picture premiere.

They will be the guests, on June 3, when "Great Expectations", based on the Charles Dickens story, has its first West Coast premiere.

But that isn't all. A prize of $1,000 will be awarded for the best slogan, and may I add that this picture, which was produced by J. Arthur Rank, is really one of the finest pictures based on a Dickens novel that has ever been put on the screen. It's in a class with "David Copperfield" which David Selznick made a few years ago—a classic.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Have you noticed the picture on the cover of "Time" magazine this week? Well, kiddies, that's not Anyface or Lena the Hyena—it's me.

Billy Rose

How did an old popcorn peddler get up there with Stalin, Durocher and fellows who steal railroads? Well, if the sergeant-at-arms will lock the doors, I'll tell you how I got to be a success.

1. Courtesy. ("Yes, sir. Thank you, sir. Drop dead, sir.")

2. Honesty. ("Here's the book I borrowed two years ago, Mrs. Schultz. Sorry it fell in the bathtub.")

3. Courage. ("He can't do that to us! Here, let me hold your coat.")

4. Planning. Carefully blueprinting your life, so you can write your diary years in advance.

That's the way Little Willie did it. Let me document it for you—but first put away those tomatoes.

To begin with, I selected my parents carefully. Too many kids let themselves be hatched by anybody who happens to be in a hatching mood. My folks never pampered me. My father was a nonpersuasive salesman. For years, the only gold in our family was in my Aunt Sarah's two front teeth. When I was born my mother looked at me and said, "Some day he'll be President!" My father looked and said, "He's all right, I guess, but what we really needed was an icebox."

In high school I concentrated on shorthand. It was part of my plan to eat regularly. I got so I could accurately transcribe anything a boss dictated, except what came between "Dear Sir" and "Yours Truly."

When I was 17, Operation Rose called for me to hitch my wagon to a big-time operator. One Sunday I planted myself alongside the railroad track up around Newburgh, N. Y. On cue, a passing freight train blew an old newspaper against my leg. I picked it up and turned to the classified ad section. There it was—"stenographers Wanted for War Agency. Apply Washington, D. C." I went there and got a job. The head man was a smart fellow named Bernard M. Baruch. For 30 years, Mr. B. has been the Mr. Big in my life. He won't know until he reads this that it was me who got Woodrow Wilson to appoint him Chairman of the War Industries Board. Part of my plan.

When I was 20, my blueprint specified I was to become a songwriter. This involved a bit of elaborate plotting. I arranged for the S. S. Comus to ram and sink a fruit freighter in a fog off Cape Hatteras. I was on the Comus, and one of the survivors it picked up was a pretty girl. When I handed her one of the five life preservers I was wearing, it started a beautiful friendship. I made a date to see her in New York. The cutie was crazy for cheesecake, and steered me to an underground delicatessen inhabited by songwriters. As we entered, I said, "Hey, sweet. Let's eat." A composer heard me, and the next thing I knew I was a songwriter. Planning does it every time.

Then the Master Plan called for "show business." I opened a giggle-gargle establishment called the Backstage Club. It was so crowded opening night there was no place for the torch singer to stand. So she sat on the piano. And that's how Helen Morgan became Helen Morgan. It's easy to discover talent if you just think ahead.

In 1935, the plot began to quicken. I persuaded John Hay Whitney's father to leave his son something like a hundred million dollars. Nice buy "Jock" financed my musical circus, "Jumbo," at the New York Hippodrome. On opening night I told my press agent, "This will make me or break Whitney."

In the Spring of '36, I arranged to be walking past an open window on the M-G-M lot in Hollywood. Rufus LeMaire happened to look out and hollered for me to come up. His friend Amon Carter in Fort Worth wanted someone to stage an Exposition there. I got the job by telling the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, "String along with me and I'll make Texas the biggest state in the Union!"

The next bit of planning was a dilly. The City Fathers of Cleveland had set up a World's Fair on the shores of Lake Erie in 1936. I fixed it for it to rain most of that season. In '37, the Cleveland officials asked me to stage a shiveree to perk up front gate attendance, I went down to the Lake to inspect the site. I think the smart girl, who loves her husband, tries to vary her personality, so as never to fall into a rut, never to be always the same."

They have pretty similar tastes about what constitutes a good-looking woman, but they have disagreed sharply over one — Lauren Bacall. When she was Betty Fenske, the Bronx beauty years ago, Bacall tried four times—under four different names—to get Conover to handle her modeling career. No dice. "Personally," Candy said, "I think Betty photographs beautifully. Harry still can't see it."

I never saw any girl who looked less like an ex-Girl Scout, but that's just what Candy is. She used to live in Atlantic City and I guess you could say her scouting career came to a startling end in 1941 when after her fellow scouts submitted her photograph—she was chosen "Miss Atlantic City." The same year she blew into New York and went right up to Conover's. He hired her, and in five minutes changed her name. Overnight, she became a "must" for fashion photographers. Her career reached some kind of an early peak when she inaugurated the practice of visiting places like El Morocco and the Conony and leaving on all the nearby tables cards stating sweetly "Candy Jones was here." Well, at least it got people talking about her.

In the early fall, the Conovers will be three, but Candy is still very much on the go. She's written a book, acts as mistress of ceremonies on a Friday night television show and is thinking of doing one of those Mr.-and-Mrs. radio shows (what—ANOTHER?) with Harry. And she has to keep an eagle eye on those Conover gals, too. No woman has sterner opposition.

"Two hours after Harry and I were married," she said, philosophically, "he was judging a 'Miss Canada' contest. 'Look at that one,' he would say, nudging me,' 'now THERE's a looker!' I guess I'll just have to get used to it."

Speedway Races To Be Broadcast Over MBS Today

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 29 — Topping the list of Memorial day broadcasts on the networks for Friday is the annual description of the annual Indianapolis motor speedway races, to take up a principal share of the day. The broadcasting will be done by MBS on an exclusive basis, divided into four sections and supplied by seven radio talkers headed by Bill Slater.

Start of the race will be on the air at 10:45 a. m., with midpoint pickups at 12:15 and 2 p. m. Then at 3 is to be the story of the winners.

In addition, these features are scheduled:

11:30 a. m. on NBC—Arlington National cemetery services, speaker Attorney General Tom Clark.

12 noon on NBC—American Legion drama "Crosses in the Wind," Speaker Commander Paul H. Griffith.

12:30 on NBC—Memorial day at American cemetery in Luxembourg, speakers Grand Dutchess Charlotte and Brig. Gen. Howard Pickham.

12.30 p. m. on MBS—U. S. Naval academy choir.

3:45 p. m. on CBS—Horse race, Suburban handicap at Belmont, N. Y.

Other programs also are taking cognizance of the occasion with special features of their own.

Both the Thin Man at 7:30 and Fanny Brice at 8 are bidding goodbyes in anticipation of vacations, he for eight weeks and she for 13. . . Because of the holiday there will be no boxing fight on ABC at 10, but instead a studio sports show.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — I pinned Jack Warner down at dinner the other evening and learned that Bette Davis' first picture since she had her baby gets going August 15.

Two stories are on tap, Rebecca West's "The Return of the Soldier" and "Winter Meeting" by Ethel Vance.

Said Jack, "we'll leave it to Bette, herself, which one she wants to do, but which ever she decides on, Henry Blanke will produce."

When Queen Bette gets back, the velvet carpet will be rolled out for her on account of Jack has a tremendous liking for the Davis gal. The last time Bette and I sat down for a talk, she told me how beautifully everything had worked out for her with Warners — the company she fought tooth and nail in England a few years ago.

Lovely Anna Neagle and her director-producer husband, Herbert Wilcox have arrived in New York from England. They haven't been in Hollywood since 1941, but they will come here now to discuss with MGM the distribution of their latest picture, "Piccadilly," which, incidentally, won England's 1946 award.

Anna, who married Wilcox at the beginning of the war, was also chosen the top British actress of 1946. She starred in RKO pictures up to the time she left to offer her aid to her native land.

While here, Wilcox will arrange to borrow one of Hollywood's top stars in exchange for a British actor.

Many years ago, Queenie Smith was ballyhooed as a rival of Marilyn Miller's as the singing-dancing darling of Broadway musicals. To my mind, Marilyn never really had a rival—but that doesn't mean that Queenie wasn't a hit starring in "Hit the Deck," "Mississippi" and many others.

Lots of water has flowed under the bridge since then, but the reason Queenie crops up now is that she's heading here for the role of the confidence woman in "Sleep My Love" for Triangle.

This is th emovie starring Claudette Colbert, Robert Cummings and Don Ameche which Buddy Rogers and Ralph Cohn are producing. I hear Queenie is stilltres attractive and this may launch her on a new career.

I was pretty sure that Gail Patrick would finally say yes to "Corny" Jackson. He is so in love with her, and I knew she wasn't indifferent to him. But Gail kept saying, "A two-time loser, I'm afraid to try it again."

So, every week I telephoned her. She called me about 10 days ago with news about her fashion show which takes place today. For once I didn't ask her, so she broke down and told me, and then swore me to secrecy and said I couldn't tell right away.

I make it a rule when people tell me news to keep faith so there I was with a story all bottled up and unable to tell. Finally, Gail gave me permission to break it in the Monday papers.

She and "Corny" plan to be married in the fall, but they have no definite wedding date as yet.

Chatter in Hollywood: Joan Crawford and Greg Bautzer, as of last night, are as cold as Greenland's icy mountains. Joan says it's all off. Usually she prefaced that remark with, "of course, we're still friends." But now she's not even saying "we're friends."I don't know what happened but this time it's serious.

Looks very much to me, unless she has a complete change of heart, that marriage, which everyone thought would take place as soon as she got her divorce from Phil Terry, has been definitely called off. Last night Ava Gardner was out with Greg—at a table for two at Ciro's.

On Tuesday 3,000 boys and girls of the Boyle Heights area, who are registered as members of the Lou Costello Jr. Youth Foundation, are going to figure in a real Hollywood motion picture premiere.

They will be the guests, on June 3, when "Great Expectations", based on the Charles Dickens story, has its first West Coast premiere.

But that isn't all. A prize of $1,000 will be awarded for the best slogan, and may I add that this picture, which was produced by J. Arthur Rank, is really one of the finest pictures based on a Dickens novel that has ever been put on the screen. It's in a class with "David Copperfield" which David Selznick made a few years ago—a classic.

The famous 7th Infantry Division, now guarding the peace in Korea, has opened its ranks to hand-picked, keen young men capable of meeting its high standards.

First to recapture American territory from the Japanese—heroes of battles on Attu, Kwajalein, Leyte and Okinawa—the "Hourglass" 7th offers the right kind of man a chance to join a top outfit. A three-year enlistment for service in the Far East will enable you to pick the 7th—and to join it overseas after initial training in the U. S.

A Private starts at $90 a month (overseas pay), with plenty of opportunity for advancement. Many other advantages make this well worth discussing with your nearest

Bullish Forces Maintain Control Of Market Despite Profit Cashing

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Bullish forces maintained control of the stock market today but they encountered considerable profit cashing on Wednesday's bulge.

The list milled about rather hesitantly in the forenoon. Steels, motors, rails and special issues led a brief fast runup in the second hour when it was announced that House and Senate conferees had agreed on a tax cut bill. There was no follow-through and volume quickly dwindled as trends wavered. Extreme advances running to two or more points were substantially reduced in most cases at the close and assorted losers persisted. Transfers of 900,000 shares compared with 890,000 yesterday and were the best of the short week.

The War Department's plea at congressional hearings for a billion-dollar yearly aircraft industry put up Douglas Aircraft 1½ at 51½, Glenn-Martin seven-eighth at 16⅜ and United Aircraft three-fourth at 19.

Up around a point or so were Bethlehem at 79¾, Deere 34¼, Standard Oil of California 56½ and United States Gypsum 93½.

Lesser improvement was retained by United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United States Rubber, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric, American Woolen and International Harvester.

American Telephone was unchanged at 163¾ after its subsidiary, Illinois Bell Telephone, omitted a dividend for one of the few times since 1882. Minor losses were shown for Chrysler, Chesapeake and Ohio, Du Pont and Johns-Manville.

Railroad issues stayed on a forward track in the bond market today for the third session in a row.

Expanded volume lifted the carriers fractions to around two points, with much of the buying centered on the reorganization group.

Sales of $4,110,000, highest in 10 days, compared with $3,560,000 Wednesday.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market held steady, the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-'72 slipping 1-32 to 103 9-32 bid.

Bullish Forces Maintain Control Of Market Despite Profit Cashing

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Bullish forces maintained control of the stock market today but they encountered considerable profit cashing on Wednesday's bulge.

The list milled about rather hesitantly in the forenoon. Steels, motors, rails and special issues led a brief fast runup in the second hour when it was announced that House and Senate conferees had agreed on a tax cut bill. There was no follow-through and volume quickly dwindled as trends wavered. Extreme advances running to two or more points were substantially reduced in most cases at the close and assorted losers persisted. Transfers of 900,000 shares compared with 890,000 yesterday and were the best of the short week.

The War Department's plea at congressional hearings for a billion-dollar yearly aircraft industry put up Douglas Aircraft 1½ at 51½, Glenn-Martin seven-eighth at 16⅜ and United Aircraft three-fourth at 19.

Up around a point or so were Bethlehem at 79¾, Deere 34¼, Standard Oil of California 56½ and United States Gypsum 93½.

Lesser improvement was retained by United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United States Rubber, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric, American Woolen and International Harvester.

American Telephone was unchanged at 163¾ after its subsidiary, Illinois Bell Telephone, omitted a dividend for one of the few times since 1882. Minor losses were shown for Chrysler, Chesapeake and Ohio, Du Pont and Johns-Manville.

Railroad issues stayed on a forward track in the bond market today for the third session in a row.

Expanded volume lifted the carriers fractions to around two points, with much of the buying centered on the reorganization group.

Sales of $4,110,000, highest in 10 days, compared with $3,560,000 Wednesday.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market held steady, the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-'72 slipping 1-32 to 103 9-32 bid.

Coney Mill Contract Talks To Open Soon

Negotiations between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the General Textile Mills on a new contract for members of the sub-local employed in the company's Lonaconing plant will open in New York next Thursday, John G. Thomas, business manager, announced yesterday.

The union seeks a 15 cent hourly wage increase, a pension plan, insurance and improved vacations, he said. Talks on the contract which expired May 8 were deferred by mutual cons

Hopes Dim For Averting Celanese Strike Tonight

Holden To Continue Settlement Efforts

The only hopeful note in the threat of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, to call a strike at the huge Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America tonight at 11 o'clock over a contract dispute was the announcement by Conciliation Commissioner James Holden that he would "keep on trying to bring the parties together."

Holden, who has been working for the past two weeks in an attempt to settle the dispute, said he had arranged a meeting between the company and the union today at 10 a. m.

He termed the situation "difficult" not only from the standpoint of monetary issues but also from several non-monetary contract disagreements which promise to prove difficult.

Holden said nothing was accomplished in two meetings between the company and the union yesterday.

The 8,600-member local met Wednesday night and voted unanimously to strike tonight at 11 o'clock after rejecting what it termed the company's final contract offer.

Production Interrupted

Both the company and the union have already begun preparations for closing the huge plant, which comprises the largest one-plant unit in the TWUA.

The union negotiating committee went to the plant yesterday to discuss with the company "orderly" means of halting operations if the strike should take place, and staff employes of the plant have been alerted by the company.

Celanese production was interrupted early yesterday morning when 19 machines in the Spinning Department were stopped, but Edward R. Allan, personnel manager, said production was resumed on the 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. shift.

Issues Formal Statement

The Celanese Corporation, in a formal statement last night, announced:

"In view of the press reports on the union's notice to the company, in the presence of United States Conciliator James Holden, of its intentions to strike effective Friday at 11 p. m., the company has taken cognizance of the fact and steps have been taken to curtail materials in process, reduce incoming raw materials and prepare the plant for any eventuality."

The union committee came to the plant yesterday to advise the company of its actions at the meeting and stated they had decided to shut the plant down tonight at 11 p. m., a company spokesman said.

William Boyd Coleman, union president, said the union filed a strike notice May 1 and that the 30-day waiting period would be up tonight at midnight.

The company, however, released a letter to the company from the Department of Labor, dated May 19 and signed by Bernard Greenberg, docket officer, which stated the "30-day waiting period" began on May 6, 1947, following the receipt of notice by the Secretary of Labor and the National Labor Relations Board.

The company took issue also with a statement by Coleman in reference to premium pay for Saturday and Sunday, that "We are not asking the Celanese to do anything which is not being done by other companies."

"So far as we know," Allan said, "there are no plants in the rayon industry which are operating on time and one half and double time for Sundays. Our contracts with the Viscose Corporation in January has no such provisions." (The company operates seven rayon plants.)

TWUA director for the Upper South and a former president of the Celanese local, arrived here last night to represent the national office during the dispute, the union said since other TWUA officers are involved in other situations which need their immediate attention.

Herbert W. Payne, TWUA rayon director, returned to New York last night after the meeting.

Payton said a general committee meeting was held last night at the union hall when plans were laid for the conduct of the strike. Committees were set up, he said, to attend to different phases of the strike.

The union had decided to es

Decision To Pay Miners Is Upheld By State Referee

Employes' Failure To Work Approved

Upholding a decision of the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Division, a state referee yesterday ordered that claims of 131 employes of Hoffman Mine No. 3 and Eckhart Mine No. 10 Consolidated Fuel Company, Inc., be paid for unemployed time from April 7, according to Francis Kenney, local manager.

Ruling on an appeal filed by William E. Jenkins, company president, in which he opposed the payment of unemployment benefits, contending that the mines were authorized to open and the men could have worked, the referee ruled that the claimants may establish benefit rights for a period of unemployment from and after April 7, 1947.

Had "Good Cause"

In giving his decision the referee, J. M. Zaccari, ruled that the failure or refusal of the men to return to work in the Hoffman and Eckhart mines on April 7, 1947 was for good cause.

The miners who observed the Coal Miners holiday April 1 and then remained away from work for the remainder of the week to April 6, in memorium of the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster, then continued unemployed as a result of a national mine close down to permit inspection of all coal mines for safety conditions.

It is for the period after April 6, that the miners filed claims for unemployment pay, contending that the mines were unsafe to work in, because of hazardous conditions that were found by the Federal Coal mine inspectors.

The local office of the Unemployment Compensation Division decided in favor of the men and indicated that the claims would be paid, but Jenkins, acting as president of the company, filed an appeal and declared there was work for the miners on and after April 7, but they refused to report.

In the appeal Jenkins contended that the mines had been certified safe by the safety committees and the 131 employes could return to work if they desired.

Jenkins stated that the mines were approved for reopening April 7 after the Safety Committee agreed to safety conditions in the mines. A. J. Green, president of Local Union No. 6884, UMW, however declared that the Safety Committee had not been shown all the federal reports and they later learned that there were between 30 and 40 violations not reported.

The local office indicated yesterday that employes of Eckhart Mine No. 10 will receive unemployment benefits for the two week period following April 7 that they remained away from work to await improved safety conditions and that miners of Hoffman Mine No. 3 who still have not returned to work will receive benefits for the entire time that they are eligible.

Reported Closed

A reliable source yesterday said the Consolidated Fuel Company has notified employes of the Hoffman mine that the mine has been closed and there is no longer employment for them. If this is true, they will receive benefits up to the present time and as much more as their 1946 earnings entitle them to.

Jenkins said the Safety Committee approved conditions in both mines, but the state referee's decision yesterday pointed out that Coal Mines Administration Order No. 16 also required that the Mine Safety Committee must (the word "must" was underlined) recommend that the mine be reopened. The report did not contain such a recommendation, according to the referee's findings.

"From a natural standpoint," the referee's statement pointed out, "the reluctance of the miners to return to work in these mines, while violations remained uncorrected, is not hard to understand. Fear of death or injury is a strong fear and ought not to be minimized because the men had continued to work in mines for some time after the violations were reported and posted; although they had apparently accepted the existing conditions through familiarity, and disaster and in this instance, the Centralia disaster, together with the closing of the mines by official orders revived in their minds a realization of the risk latent in these mines."

Local officials said the claims will be paid within seven days if neither side files a further appeal.

Council Defers Action On Tax Exemption

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Council yesterday, no decision was reached on a request for a 10-year tax exemption on tools and machinery by the National Jet Company.

Mrs. Hugh Kilroy, secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, asked permission for the society to hold its monthly board meetings at City Hall. Her letter was referred to Commissioner Myers G. Light with power to act.

The council authorized Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller to borrow $25,000 to meet current expenses until tax money starts coming in.

Installation of a traffic light on Virginia Avenue near the Baltimore and Ohio Y.M.C.A. was discussed, and it was pointed out the work is being delayed by the lack of some parts.

The payroll for the second half of the month and bills were ordered paid.

Williams Is Held

Board Unjustly Criticized Over Judge's Salary

Law Provides Basis For Making Payment

Members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners were being soundly criticized at the court House yesterday by a number of county employes, but unjustly so, it was revealed.

The Board was accused of "docking" $12 from the pay check of Orphans' Court Judge William C. Abbott, for failure to attend the session of Orphans' Court on Friday, May 16.

At the office of the Register of Wills, it was learned that Judge Abbott was absent from that particular session, due to the sudden death of a son.

Under the law, as passed by the General Assembly in 1945, according to attaches in the office of the Register of Wills, it is clearly provided that the three Orphans' Court judges of Allegany County shall "be paid $12 for each session they attend." There is no provision in the law, (Chapter 801 of the Acts of 1945), to pay the judges in the event of absent due to illness or death in their families.

A time sheet, or attendance record is kept by a clerk in the office, and at the end of each pay period, a voucher is prepared for the number of sessions each judge attends. The court sits, according to law, each Tuesday and Friday, and in the event of a holiday, sits the day preceding.

The County Commissioners, when passing the payroll, issue checks for the amount of the prescribed pay records or time vouchers. They cannot vary these amounts, they explained. Judge Abbott's pay check for the period was $12 less than the other two judges, because he missed a session, and under the law, commissioners explain, he must attend each session to be eligible for pay.

Before the present law was passed, setting up the pay scale of the Orphans' Court judges, they were paid on the basis of $90 each per month, whether they attended court or not. The new pay scale of $12 per session represents an increase of $168 per year over the old law, but Judges must attend sessions of Orphans' Court to draw full pay.

Sanitary Methods High, Community Baking Co. Says

Answer FFDA Charge In Federal Court

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — Officials of the Community Baking Co. of Cumberland contended it is "one of the most sanitary (bakeries) in Maryland" in an answer on file in Federal Court today against charges by District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn that it operated under unsanitary conditions.

Officers Answer

President Frank E. Smith of the firm and John A. Kreiling, vice president and plant manager, through Attorney William C. Walsh, declared the factory is now "being operated in strict accordance with the highest sanitary standards and methods."

The firm answered that an inspection now would show its plant "is being operated in strict conformity with the Federal Food-Drug Act." The last inspection was in February, 1947.

Smith and Kreiling said they ordered a complete flour handling unit from York, Pa., in June, 1945, but that it has not been delivered because of steel shortages.

"Delivery is expected at the end of this month," they said.

The firm further stated that it was "willing to adopt" any further suggestions made by the Food-Drug Administration for the improvement of sanitary conditions at its plant.

"Corrected Conditions"

Adequate steps to improve conditions at the plant were taken after the first inspection, the bakery said, and at all subsequent inspections, the firm "continued to correct (conditions) to the utmost of its ability."

John A Kreiling, vice-president, treasurer and plant manager said here last night it has always been "our aim to manufacture baked goods in the most sanitary manner at all times. Cleanliness and quality is foremost in our minds for the well-being of the public."

Kreiling said visitors, including classes of school children, nurses, clubs, etc., are welcome at anytime to go through the plant.

Evelyn Lashley Is Graduated

A local young woman, Miss Evelyn Louise Lashley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Lashley, 822 Camden Avenue, was a member of the graduating class at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., in which James M. Wood, himself "graduated" after 35 years as its president. Both received an Associate of Arts degree, May 27.

Miss Lashley, who majored in advertising, served as president of the Columbia hall and was a member of the college legislature, Burrall-Liason committee, college Board of Publications and Phi Lambda Beta. Before matriculating to Stephens, Miss Lashley graduated from Allegany High School, where she was editor of the Alcohi Mirror, charter president of the Allegany Press Club, a member of the History Club, Tri-Hi-Y, Astronomy and Spanish Clubs.

Mr. Lashley and his daughter, with her room mate, Miss Jennifer Williams and her father, Preston Williams, Washington, D. C., were guests of President Wood for breakfast graduation mroning.

Major commencement events began May 23 with the commencement play, and included the water carnival, annual horse show, the usual social activities and a pageant honoring President Wood, who is retiring after 35 years of administration at Stephens, and will begin a lecture tour of the country.

A vested choir formed the background for the outdoor pageant honoring President Wood which paid tribute to the man, who began his career as an educator by teaching in a grade school at the age of 16; later his graduation from high school, Teachers College at Warrensburg, graduate study at the University of Missouri, three honorary degrees (LLD) from American colleges.

Industry Payroll Up $737,844 In Cumberland Area

Although the monthly report of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce shows that there are 517 fewer persons employed in the 17 major industries of the area in April of this year than in the same month last year, figures show that the payroll of these firms has increased $737,844.84 covering the same period.

The report also states that retail sales for March, 1947 show a gain of 11½ per cent in comparison with statistics of last March. The June issue of "Sales Management" reveals that a volume of business amounting to $4,850,000 shows an increase of 228.4 per cent over business in June, 1939.

Building progress in the city is shown by the fact that $24,400 more construction work was done in May than in April.

The registrants at the Maryland State Employment Service decreased by 534 from April 15 to May 15 and in the same period, 15 more placements were made.

2 Army Flyers Escape Injury In Plane Crash

L-5 Craft Strikes Tree Near Oakland

An Army Air Corps lieutenant and his staff sergeant escaped serious injury yesterday when the Liaison L-5 rescue air craft in which they were searching for another plane crashed on a farm at Loch Lynn, four-miles west of Oakland, at 1:30 p. m. according to State Police.

The men, identified as Lt. Lawrence W. O'Brien, Mass., and Staff Sergeant Richard F. Cowett, Texas, told investigating authorities that they lost control of the plane in a high wind storm and crashed when they attempted to land in a cleared field on the farm of Charles J. Martin.

Plane Total Loss

Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated, said neither man suffered serious injury, but explained that the plane which dragged one of the wings for 100 yards on the ground and then struck a tree, is a total loss.

Lt. O'Brien, authorities said, told them that he and the sergeant, operating out of the Elkins, W. Va., municipal airport, were searching for another plane believed lost in the area.

When the high wind came up, the lieutenant told Trooper Hart, he attempted to land, but after nearing the ground realized it would be impossible and tried to gain altitude again. The wind made this impossible, the Trooper said, and the plane crashed.

Martin, who was clearing brush from his farm attempted to signal the pilot to land in another field when he saw them nearing earth, but was forced to fall to the ground to escape being hit by the falling plane.

Mrs. Martin said her husband hurried to the scene of the crash and aided the two men in getting out of the wreckage. She said both were brought to her home, where they drank coffee and ate pie after telephoning their commanding officer at the Elkins airport.

Trooper Hart, said neither of the men would give details of the search for the other plane declaring the information would have to be released by the commanding officer. The trooper said the L-5 was from the Air Rescue Detachment No. 5 that was sent to this section from Scott Field, Ill., to aid in the search for the lost plane.

Maj. B. F. Kelly, commanding officer of the detachment, contacted in Elkins last night said the two men along with five other officers and five enlisted men flying three L-5s and a C-47 arrived in Elkins yesterday morning to search for a PT-26 converted army trainer that reportedly took off from Norfolk, Va., May 23 at 5 a. m.

The plane has not been heard from since, according to the major, and a general area search was ordered for the plane believed to be piloted by one man, identified only by the last name of "Spencer."

Two other planes that arrived here with the detachments a B-17 and another C-47, were called off yesterday, according to the major to assist in a search for a missing plane reported in the Michigan area.

Return To Elkins

Mrs. Martin said both men remained at her home until 5 p. m. when an Army jeep arrived from Elkins to take them back. She said the sergeant suffered a "black eye" and the lieutenant was apparently bruised slightly, but otherwise "they didn't seem to be injured."

The plane, Trooper Hart said, is a total loss and added several hundred persons gathered around the wreckage shortly after the crash. Mrs. Martin said a "make shift" fence had been erected around the wreckage and an Army guard arrived in the jeep to keep watch over the craft during the night.

Deputy Sheriff Paul Fisher, Garrett County, who assisted Trooper Hart in the investigation, said a strong wind and heavy rainstorm were in progress at the time of the crash, and declared that O'Brien told him the plane got out of control shortly after the wind rose.

Mrs. Martin said no apparent damage was caused to the farm other than the tree which the plane struck.

Hopes Dim For Averting Celanese Strike Tonight

Holden To Continue Settlement Efforts

The only hopeful note in the threat of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, to call a strike at the huge Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America tonight at 11 o'clock over a contract dispute was the announcement by Conciliation Commissioner James Holden that he would "keep on trying to bring the parties together."

Holden, who has been working for the past two weeks in an attempt to settle the dispute, said he had arranged a meeting between the company and the union today at 10 a. m.

He termed the situation "difficult" not only from the standpoint of monetary issues but also from several non-monetary contract disagreements which promise to prove difficult.

Holden said nothing was accomplished in two meetings between the company and the union yesterday.

The 8,600-member local met Wednesday night and voted unanimously to strike tonight at 11 o'clock after rejecting what it termed the company's final contract offer.

Production Interrupted

Both the company and the union have already begun preparations for closing the huge plant, which comprises the largest one-plant unit in the TWUA.

The union negotiating committee went to the plant yesterday to discuss with the company "orderly" means of halting operations if the strike should take place, and staff employes of the plant have been alerted by the company.

Celanese production was interrupted early yesterday morning when 19 machines in the Spinning Department were stopped, but Edward R. Allan, personnel manager, said production was resumed on the 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. shift.

Issues Formal Statement

The Celanese Corporation, in a formal statement last night, announced:

"In view of the press reports on the union's notice to the company, in the presence of United States Conciliator James Holden, of its intentions to strike effective Friday at 11 p. m., the company has taken cognizance of the fact and steps have been taken to curtail materials in process, reduce incoming raw materials and prepare the plant for any eventuality."

The union committee came to the plant yesterday to advise the company of its actions at the meeting and stated they had decided to shut the plant down tonight at 11 p. m., a company spokesman said.

William Boyd Coleman, union president, said the union filed a strike notice May 1 and that the 30-day waiting period would be up tonight at midnight.

The company, however, released a letter to the company from the Department of Labor, dated May 19 and signed by Bernard Greenberg, docket officer, which stated the "30-day waiting period" began on May 6, 1947, following the receipt of notice by the Secretary of Labor and the National Labor Relations Board.

The company took issue also with a statement by Coleman in reference to premium pay for Saturday and Sunday, that "We are not asking the Celanese to do anything which is not being done by other companies."

"So far as we know," Allan said, "there are no plants in the rayon industry which are operating on time and one half and double time for Sundays. Our contracts with the Viscose Corporation in January has no such provisions." (The company operates seven rayon plants.)

TWUA director for the Upper South and a former president of the Celanese local, arrived here last night to represent the national office during the dispute, the union said since other TWUA officers are involved in other situations which need their immediate attention.

Herbert W. Payne, TWUA rayon director, returned to New York last night after the meeting.

Payton said a general committee meeting was held last night at the union hall when plans were laid for the conduct of the strike. Committees were set up, he said, to attend to different phases of the strike.

The union had decided to es

Decision To Pay Miners Is Upheld By State Referee

Employes' Failure To Work Approved

Upholding a decision of the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Division, a state referee yesterday ordered that claims of 131 employes of Hoffman Mine No. 3 and Eckhart Mine No. 10 Consolidated Fuel Company, Inc., be paid for unemployed time from April 7, according to Francis Kenney, local manager.

Ruling on an appeal filed by William E. Jenkins, company president, in which he opposed the payment of unemployment benefits, contending that the mines were authorized to open and the men could have worked, the referee ruled that the claimants may establish benefit rights for a period of unemployment from and after April 7, 1947.

Had "Good Cause"

In giving his decision the referee, J. M. Zaccari, ruled that the failure or refusal of the men to return to work in the Hoffman and Eckhart mines on April 7, 1947 was for good cause.

The miners who observed the Coal Miners holiday April 1 and then remained away from work for the remainder of the week to April 6, in memorium of the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster, then continued unemployed as a result of a national mine close down to permit inspection of all coal mines for safety conditions.

It is for the period after April 6, that the miners filed claims for unemployment pay, contending that the mines were unsafe to work in, because of hazardous conditions that were found by the Federal Coal mine inspectors.

The local office of the Unemployment Compensation Division decided in favor of the men and indicated that the claims would be paid, but Jenkins, acting as president of the company, filed an appeal and declared there was work for the miners on and after April 7, but they refused to report.

In the appeal Jenkins contended that the mines had been certified safe by the safety committees and the 131 employes could return to work if they desired.

Jenkins stated that the mines were approved for reopening April 7 after the Safety Committee agreed to safety conditions in the mines. A. J. Green, president of Local Union No. 6884, UMW, however declared that the Safety Committee had not been shown all the federal reports and they later learned that there were between 30 and 40 violations not reported.

The local office indicated yesterday that employes of Eckhart Mine No. 10 will receive unemployment benefits for the two week period following April 7 that they remained away from work to await improved safety conditions and that miners of Hoffman Mine No. 3 who still have not returned to work will receive benefits for the entire time that they are eligible.

Reported Closed

A reliable source yesterday said the Consolidated Fuel Company has notified employes of the Hoffman mine that the mine has been closed and there is no longer employment for them. If this is true, they will receive benefits up to the present time and as much more as their 1946 earnings entitle them to.

Jenkins said the Safety Committee approved conditions in both mines, but the state referee's decision yesterday pointed out that Coal Mines Administration Order No. 16 also required that the Mine Safety Committee must (the word "must" was underlined) recommend that the mine be reopened. The report did not contain such a recommendation, according to the referee's findings.

"From a natural standpoint," the referee's statement pointed out, "the reluctance of the miners to return to work in these mines, while violations remained uncorrected, is not hard to understand. Fear of death or injury is a strong fear and ought not to be minimized because the men had continued to work in mines for some time after the violations were reported and posted; although they had apparently accepted the existing conditions through familiarity, and disaster and in this instance, the Centralia disaster, together with the closing of the mines by official orders revived in their minds a realization of the risk latent in these mines."

Local officials said the claims will be paid within seven days if neither side files a further appeal.

Council Defers Action On Tax Exemption

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Council yesterday, no decision was reached on a request for a 10-year tax exemption on tools and machinery by the National Jet Company.

Mrs. Hugh Kilroy, secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, asked permission for the society to hold its monthly board meetings at City Hall. Her letter was referred to Commissioner Myers G. Light with power to act.

The council authorized Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller to borrow $25,000 to meet current expenses until tax money starts coming in.

Installation of a traffic light on Virginia Avenue near the Baltimore and Ohio Y.M.C.A. was discussed, and it was pointed out the work is being delayed by the lack of some parts.

The payroll for the second half of the month and bills were ordered paid.

Williams Is Held

Police are holding a man who gave his name as Richard E. Williams, 418 Greene Street, for investigation, after he was arrested yesterday at 6:10 p. m.

Board Unjustly Criticized Over Judge's Salary

Law Provides Basis For Making Payment

Members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners were being soundly criticized at the court House yesterday by a number of county employes, but unjustly so, it was revealed.

The Board was accused of "docking" $12 from the pay check of Orphans' Court Judge William C. Abbott, for failure to attend the session of Orphans' Court on Friday, May 16.

At the office of the Register of Wills, it was learned that Judge Abbott was absent from that particular session, due to the sudden death of a son.

Under the law, as passed by the General Assembly in 1945, according to attaches in the office of the Register of Wills, it is clearly provided that the three Orphans' Court judges of Allegany County shall "be paid $12 for each session they attend." There is no provision in the law, (Chapter 801 of the Acts of 1945), to pay the judges in the event of absent due to illness or death in their families.

A time sheet, or attendance record is kept by a clerk in the office, and at the end of each pay period, a voucher is prepared for the number of sessions each judge attends. The court sits, according to law, each Tuesday and Friday, and in the event of a holiday, sits the day preceding.

The County Commissioners, when passing the payroll, issue checks for the amount of the prescribed pay records or time vouchers. They cannot vary these amounts, they explained. Judge Abbott's pay check for the period was $12 less than the other two judges, because he missed a session, and under the law, commissioners explain, he must attend each session to be eligible for pay.

Before the present law was passed, setting up the pay scale of the Orphans' Court judges, they were paid on the basis of $90 each per month, whether they attended court or not. The new pay scale of $12 per session represents an increase of $168 per year over the old law, but Judges must attend sessions of Orphans' Court to draw full pay.

Sanitary Methods High, Community Baking Co. Says

Answer FFDA Charge In Federal Court

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — Officials of the Community Baking Co. of Cumberland contended it is "one of the most sanitary (bakeries) in Maryland" in an answer on file in Federal Court today against charges by District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn that it operated under unsanitary conditions.

Officers Answer

President Frank E. Smith of the firm and John A. Kreiling, vice president and plant manager, through Attorney William C. Walsh, declared the factory is now "being operated in strict accordance with the highest sanitary standards and methods."

The firm answered that an inspection now would show its plant "is being operated in strict conformity with the Federal Food-Drug Act." The last inspection was in February, 1947.

Smith and Kreiling said they ordered a complete flour handling unit from York, Pa., in June, 1945, but that it has not been delivered because of steel shortages.

"Delivery is expected at the end of this month," they said.

The firm further stated that it was "willing to adopt" any further suggestions made by the Food-Drug Administration for the improvement of sanitary conditions at its plant.

"Corrected Conditions"

Adequate steps to improve conditions at the plant were taken after the first inspection, the bakery said, and at all subsequent inspections, the firm "continued to correct (conditions) to the utmost of its ability."

John A Kreiling, vice-president, treasurer and plant manager said here last night it has always been "our aim to manufacture baked goods in the most sanitary manner at all times. Cleanliness and quality is foremost in our minds for the well-being of the public."

Kreiling said visitors, including classes of school children, nurses, clubs, etc., are welcome at anytime to go through the plant.

A vested choir formed the background for the outdoor pageant honoring President Wood which paid tribute to the man, who began his career as an educator by teaching in a grade school at the age of 16; later his graduation from high school, Teachers College at Warrensburg, graduate study at the University of Missouri, three honorary degrees (LLD) from American colleges.

2 Army Flyers Escape Injury In Plane Crash

L-5 Craft Strikes Tree Near Oakland

An Army Air Corps lieutenant and his staff sergeant escaped serious injury yesterday when the Liaison L-5 rescue air craft in which they were searching for another plane crashed on a farm at Loch Lynn, four-miles west of Oakland, at 1:30 p. m. according to State Police.

The men, identified as Lt. Lawrence W. O'Brien, Mass., and Staff Sergeant Richard F. Cowett, Texas, told investigating authorities that they lost control of the plane in a high wind storm and crashed when they attempted to land in a cleared field on the farm of Charles J. Martin.

Plane Total Loss

Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated, said neither man suffered serious injury, but explained that the plane which dragged one of the wings for 100 yards on the ground and then struck a tree, is a total loss.

Lt. O'Brien, authorities said, told them that he and the sergeant, operating out of the Elkins, W. Va., municipal airport, were searching for another plane believed lost in the area.

When the high wind came up, the lieutenant told Trooper Hart, he attempted to land, but after nearing the ground realized it would be impossible and tried to gain altitude again. The wind made this impossible, the Trooper said, and the plane crashed.

Martin, who was clearing brush from his farm attempted to signal the pilot to land in another field when he saw them nearing earth, but was forced to fall to the ground to escape being hit by the falling plane.

Mrs. Martin said her husband hurried to the scene of the crash and aided the two men in getting out of the wreckage. She said both were brought to her home, where they drank coffee and ate pie, after telephoning their commanding officer at the Elkins airport.

Trooper Hart, said neither of the men would give details of the search for the other plane declaring the information would have to be released by the commanding officer. The trooper said the L-5 was from the Air Rescue Detachment No. 5 that was sent to this section from Scott Field, Ill., to aid in the search for the lost plane.

Maj. B. F. Kelly, commanding officer of the detachment, contacted in Elkins last night said the two men along with five other officers and five enlisted men flying three L-5s and a C-47 arrived in Elkins yesterday morning to search for a PT-26 converted army trainer that reportedly took off from Norfolk, Va., May 23 at 5 a. m.

The plane has not been heard from since, according to the major, and a general area search was ordered for the plane believed to be piloted by one man, identified only by the last name of "Spencer."

Two other planes that arrived here with the detachments a B-17 and another C-47, were called off yesterday, according to the major to assist in a search for a missing plane reported in the Michigan area.

Return To Elkins

Mrs. Martin said both men remained at her home until 5 p. m. when an Army jeep arrived from Elkins to take them back. She said the sergeant suffered a "black eye" and the lieutenant was apparently bruised slightly, but otherwise "they didn't seem to be injured."

The plane, Trooper Hart said, is a total loss and added several hundred persons gathered around the wreckage shortly after the crash. Mrs. Martin said a "make shift" fence had been erected around the wreckage and an Army guard arrived in the jeep to keep watch over the craft during the night.

Deputy Sheriff Paul Fisher, Garrett County, who assisted Trooper Hart in the investigation, said a strong wind and heavy rainstorm were in progress at the time of the crash, and declared that O'Brien told him the plane got out of control shortly after the wind rose.

Mrs. Martin said no apparent damage was caused to the farm other than the tree which the plane struck.
